WEATHER.

A week of rainy weather is on the books to be followed by a cold wave. The local forecast for to-day and to-morrow is rain and cooler.

Observer Hagen of the weather bureau gives the reasons for this as follows:

"The storm center which was south of us yesterday, moving eastward, made a flank movement in the Ohio valley about 2 p. m. and is now rushing up and out through the lower lakes.

"This change in direction places a different aspect on the weather features for the remainder of the week. The conditions this morning as shown on the government weather map justifies me in saying that, with the exception of probably a few hours Wednesday night, cloudy and rainy weather will continue until about Saturday, with slightly lower temperature each succeeding day until probably Sunday, when will have a demand for heavier overcoats. Heavy rains fell on the east and southeast side of the storm last night. Three inches fell at Nashville, one and three-quarter inches at Louisville, one inch at St. Louis, Chicago and Alpena. Storm signals have been ordered up on Lakes Michigan, Huron and Erie. Gales of 30 miles were reported from Chicago, Erie, Port Huron, Detroit, Toledo and Oswego. Southeast backing to northeast winds will rage along the lakes to-day and to-night. Highest temperature here yesterday was 67 degrees; lowest this morning, 56 degrees. Total rainfall .30 inch.

Forecast for western New York and Ohio—Continued warm, brisk southerly winds; cloudy weather and rain; sometimes heavy; rain Wednesday.

For Indiana and Illinois—Cloudiness and rain, probably turning into snow in northeast Illinois; northerly winds and slightly cooler; light rain or snow probably Wednesday.

For Michigan and Wisconsin—Cloudiness and rain; probably heavy in lower Michigan; nearly stationary temperature.

An Editor in Jail in Atlanta, Georgia.

He Says He Has Committed No Wrong, But Attempted Suicide on Account of a Love Affair.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 10.—J. B. Craigmiles, owner and editor of the Bryson City (N. C.) Times, is in jail here charged with forgery. Saturday night he attempted to commit suicide with morphine, but prompt medical assistance saved his life.

Craigmiles says a high toned young lady, well known in Atlanta society circles, is the cause of his trouble.

He denies that he is guilty of the forgery charges, but says he made an attempt on his life because the lady would not marry him.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS BARN,

Fatal Accident to Mr. A. J. Thomas Yesterday.

A Well-Known Citizen of Huron County Falls From His Hay Loft and Breaks His Neck.

Norwalk, O., Nov. 10.—(Special)—A. J. Thomas, a prominent farmer and sheep raiser of this county, Bronson township, was found dead in his barn yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, lying on the floor with his neck broken.

He went into the barn about 3 o'clock. The supposition is that he attempted to walk across a plank from one mow to the other, when the plank broke, dropping him to the floor and breaking his neck.

He was a well-to-do farmer, well known in this and adjoining counties.

His brother is Uriah Thomas of Greenwich, this county, and his father is Don Thomas of this city.

Answers to inquiries are coming in rapidly and this morning the Leader announced that out of 33 senators and representatives 19 are for Sherman, two for Foraker, one for McKinley and 11 non-committal.

IN ALL ITS FURY,

A Cyclone Swept Over the Andaman Islands,

And Left An Awful Wake of Ruin Behind.

Two Hundred People Killed by the Storm,

And Two Hundred and Fifty Others Injured.

Convicts and British Soldiers Go Down to Death Together—The Birds in the Air Were the First to Notice the Approach of the Storm.

London, Nov. 10.—Further particulars received here this morning from Calcutta show that the cyclone which swept over the Andaman islands (a British convict settlement) in the Bay of Bengal, on Monday last, caused a very much larger loss of life than was at first reported, and that the damage done was far in excess of the amount first telegraphed here.

In addition to the drowning of nearly all the crew of H. M. S. Enterprise, the government steamer engaged in conveying the convicts to and from the settlement, by which 78 out of 83 men lost their lives, it is now officially announced that the total loss of life is nearly 200, and that about 250 people in addition were severely wounded.

The first approach of the cyclonic disturbance was denoted by the deadly stillness which settled over the islands and by the fact that the birds and animals seemed to be trembling with fear, seeking shelter everywhere and apparently having entirely lost all their dread of man's approach to them.

Then the air became most oppressively hot and banks of dark clouds began to gather on the eastern horizon, while in the distance could be heard the low rumbling of thunder, the clouds now and then being broken by flashes of vivid lightning. By this time everybody on the islands had come to the conclusion that a severe tropical storm was approaching, but nobody imagined that a disaster was pending.

Fishermen and coasting vessels were hurriedly making for shelter and the crew of the Enterprise began to batten down and get ready to let go their spar anchors.

The Andaman islands, it should be explained, form a group of islands in the bay of Bengal, between latitude 10 degrees and 13 degrees north and nearly under 93 degrees of east longitude, about 180 miles southwest of Cape Negrais, a headland on the coast of British Burmah.

The Great and Little Andaman islands compose the group, and they are separated by Duncan's passage, where a number of native coasters and fishing boats foundered, or were driven ashore, during the cyclone of Monday.

Port Blair, on Chatham island, is the headquarters of the convict settlement, the latter being naturally the most important industrial center of the islands. It was at Port Blair that the greatest loss of life occurred, and it is believed here that when the final returns come in it will be seen that considerably over 200, and possibly 300, were victims of the cyclone's fury, for the population of Port Blair, or Blair station, is over fourteen thousand souls.

Soon after the thunder and lightning were noticed, rushing sounds were heard in the air and these increased until a fierce gale was howling across the islands, whipping the water into foam and bending the trees like whips before its breath, but this was as nothing to what followed.

Suddenly the fury of the storm seemed to be redoubled and a wild burst of wind bent down, uprooted or cracked in two great numbers of trees, unroofed numbers of buildings, sent planks, small trees, clouds of foliage and even heavy beams whirling through the air, which by this time seemed to be charged with electricity and to be positively thick with oppressive damp heat.

The convicts who were not in confinement, nearly all of them being East Indians, ran panic stricken here and there, seeking places of shelter, or falling prostrate upon the ground they resigned themselves helplessly to their fate, and, muttering prayers, prepared to die.

With the convicts in confinement, the situation was much worse. The shrieking cyclone, the fearful thunder and lightning and the shouts of command of warning to be heard on all sides, spread such terror among them that they raged like wild beasts in their efforts to free themselves and at least meet death at liberty.

Then came the sound of falling buildings, of crashing roofs and shrieks of agony, as scores of helpless people were crushed beneath falling beams and toppling masonry.

On all sides was the air filled with yells of agony or despair and mingling with the fearful sounds of the cyclonic fury, these lamentations caused a scene which has never been equalled in that part of the world.

To the credit of the guards be it said they did their utmost to release the confined convicts; but during the awful sweep of the storm over the islands every man, woman and child there had all they could do to look after their own personal safety.

But, right here let a most gallant example of woman's pluck and strength be noted and credited to the account of those who are, in eastern countries especially, looked upon as too weak and lowly to be worthy of anything but the right to live and bear children.

In the present instance, in the midst of this terrible disturbance of nature, when the bravest and strongest men quailed with apprehension, it was noticed that a building, standing near the seashore, had been crushed down and actually hurled into the surf by the fearful force of the wind.

Some of the convicts confined in this building succeeded in escaping before it was blown into the water; others were drowned in spite of their efforts to escape, but about nine or ten of these convicts succeeded in climbing upon the roof of their cyclone-crushed quarters, and they loudly appealed for help.

The guards and others, however, were too much occupied with other matters to be able to be of any service to the imperilled men. In this emergency a gang of female convicts displayed great bravery.

Undaunted by the shrieking cyclone, and listening only to the frantic appeals for help uttered by the men in danger, they boldly joined hands together in a long line, a human rope, the boldest of the women at the end facing the water, and in this manner the female convicts slowly but steadily ventured into the raging surf beating upon the shore, and though those at the extremity of the line were frequently swept off their feet and were almost half drowned by the ruching waters, they finally succeeded in rescuing six native convicts who would otherwise have perished, for their companions had been swept away and drowned.

This is only an instance of the courage displayed upon this occasion by the female convicts of the Andaman islands; on all sides they won the highest praise by ministering to the dying and nursing the wounded.

While the men seemed cowed with terror, the women as a rule displayed the most remarkable courage. So much so, that it is understood that the governor of the penal station will recommend that a number of them be pardoned and that the sentences of a large number of others be commuted to short terms of imprisonment.

While this was going on ashore, at sea, off the coast, matters were nearly as bad. Every small craft, without apparently a single exception, caught at sea by the cyclone, was either swamped after a short struggle with the storm or swept ashore and then dashed to pieces amid the surf. A number of natives not included in the present estimate lost their lives in this manner.

The crew of H. M. S. Enterprise fared no better than the natives, in spite of their utmost endeavors the steamer, dragging anchors, was forced ashore and soon after she began pounding upon the rocks. She broke up so quickly that but three or four out of her crew of 90 were saved.

Of course, as in all similar events, it is difficult, almost impossible to obtain full facts and figures as to the total loss of life and exact amount of damage done, but enough is already known now to enable the statement to be made that the loss of life will certainly be between 200 and 250 and that there are from 250 to 300 people seriously injured.

The damage done to crops and other property throughout North Andaman island, Middle Andaman island and South Andaman island, comprising the Great Andamans and Little Andamans, including Interview island, Outram island, Henry Lawrence island and Rutland island, is judged to be very heavy, for it is admitted that all the crops not in thoroughly sheltered places have been completely destroyed and that the number of buildings damaged or destroyed is very great.

So far as known the convict population of the Andaman islands, as they are officially designated, is about fourteen thousand, of which number some three thousand hold tickets as "self-supporters" which enables them to engage in trades or occupations, about the islands, by receiving the necessary permission.

METHUSHEK DEAD.

New York, Nov. 10.—Frederick Methushek, the inventor, whose piano improvements are in general use all over the world, died at his home in this city yesterday. Although his inventions would have been made him enormously rich had he patented them, he gave them to the world and died a comparatively poor man. He was born in the palace at Manheim, Germany, in 1814, and early developed great mechanical genius.

BISHOP MERRILL ILL.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Bishop Merrill, of the Methodist church, was taken to Wesley hospital seriously ill. Fears are entertained for his life. An abscess or tumor has formed in the abdominal region and a difficult surgical operation will be necessary to save his life.

CHOYNSKI AND WOODS.

San Francisco, Nov. 10.—The Pacific Athletic club directors have arranged a match between George Choynski, the noted heavy-weight of this city, and Billy Woods, of Denver, for next month. A purse of $4,000 will be hung up for the men.

HELD THE EMPEROR DOWN

Herr Miquel Had a Difficult Task.

The Kaiser Would Have Unnerved Berlin,

And Started a Panic in the Financial World, the Results of Which Would Be Difficult to Estimate.

Berlin, Nov. 10.—It has leaked out that Dr. Miquel, the minister of finance, spent two hours on Monday with the kaiser, striving successfully to prevent that impetuous young monarch from doing something hasty and disastrous to the financial interests of Berlin and of Prussia.

What occurred at the interview has not been revealed. It is known that Miquel got back to his official quarters with a very red face and an expression of relief, and that nothing more was heard of a decree or rescript, which, according to palace rumor, was to have been laid upon all the bank safes and secrets in Berlin.

The kaiser has a habit of evolving his intentions in a sort of jerky soliloquy whenever he gets stirred up on a subject, no matter who may be present, and that is the reason that his purposes become known through gossip long before he has officially announced them.

In this way he undoubtedly revealed his purpose to shake up Berlin finances, in which he appears to have been restrained by Dr. Miquel, in whom the kaiser has great confidence.

It is thought likely that the kaiser is out of this particular tantrum, and that the Berlin bankers, staggered by the popular panic, will have an opportunity to breathe.

HOSSACK IS DEAD.

A Friend of the Black Race Has Departed.

The Founder of the Illinois Underground Railway Has Passed to the Great Beyond.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—(Special)—John Hossack, of Ottawa, Ill., is dead. He was an abolitionist next to John Brown in his active endeavors for the enslaved blacks.

He built an underground railway and helped slaves to escape into Canada, making a station and depot of supplies of his handsome mansion on a bluff near the village.

Hossack was arrested and tried for conspiracy in Chicago in 1800 with his accomplice and friend Dr. Stout.

Convicted, they were fined $100 and sentenced to 10 days in jail. It was in answer to the judge that Hossack delivered his address which has gone into history, portions of which were almost prophetic in the light of what so soon followed. He said:

"I am ready to die, if need be, for the oppressed of my race, but slavery must die, and when my country shall have passed through the terrible conflict which the destruction of slavery must cost ,and when the history of the great struggle shall be candidly written, the rescuers of Jim Gray will be considered as having done honor to God, to humanity and to themselves. I am told there is no appeal from this court, yet I do appeal to the court of high heaven, where Judge Drummond and Judge Caton, the rescuer and the rescued shall all have to stand at the judgment seat of the most high."

Hossack was Scotch by birth, came to America at the age of 12 and became wealthy by dealing in grain. He was 85 years old at his death, and leaves 10 living children. His funeral took place in Chicago yesterday.

UNFIT FOR USE.

Secretary Probst on the Water in the Ottawa River.

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—Secretary Probst, of the state board of health, returned to-day from an official visit to Findlay and Lima, where there are numerous cases of fever in consequence of impurities in the water supply.

At Lima the situation is particularly startling. The water used is drawn from the Ottawa river into which flows the sewage of both the infirmary and the county children's home.

The secretary ordered the discontinuance of the use of the water in the river.

MADE AN ASSIGNMENT.

Wapakoneta, O., Nov. 10.—(Special)—This morning Stenger & Frank made an assignment of all their personal and real property for the benefit of their creditors. The flouring mill will be appraised by William Bitler, John Taeusch and J. H. Doering. Liabilities will be over twenty thousand dollars. Assets will be about the same. Michael Brown, assignee.

A PASTOR WANTS TO GO.

Fostoria, O., Nov. 10.—Rev. Henry Gardner, pastor of the Presbyterian church here, announced to his congregation yesterday that next Sabbath he would hand in his resignation and preach his farewell sermon. This is the second time he has offered his resignation, but the first time it was not accepted, but this time he is bound to go.

WILL FIGHT TO A FINISH.

Harrison Will Stand No More Foolishness.

Federal Officers Must Stand By Him Loyally.

Commissioner Mason Is Now on a Still Hunt to Spy Out the Blaine Men and Get Them Out of the Way Before Christmas.

Washington, Nov. 10.—(Special)—It is evident that Benjamin Harrison has come to the belief that, in order to receive the nomination of his party for the presidency next year, he will have to fight for it.

Every subordinate of the administration will be expected from now on to take an active hand in politics, and see to it that none but firm supporters of Harrison's renomination are sent to the national convention.

The president has received reports indicating that some federal officials are leaning towards Blaine or other candidates for the presidency, and has become much angered in consequence.

It is said that the collectors of internal revenue in Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and Illinois are not altogether loyal to Harrison's aspirations. They will be disciplined.

Mr. John W. Mason, the commissioner of internal revenue, has started on an extended tour, which will embrace the four states named, and it is understood that he will discipline the internal revenue officials therein or create some vacancies.

Before he started Mason was summoned to the white house, and certain correspondence which the president has received during the past few weeks was submitted to him.

He was severely lectured by Mr. Harrison and instructed to start for Louisiana immediately and return home via Mississippi, Tennessee and Illinois and in the course of his tour to impress upon the internal revenue officials in these states the necessity of supporting the head of the administration for renomination.

And in the event of their not being pliable and ready to be disciplined he was told that he should find cause for removing them in the interest of more loyal friends of the chief of the administration.

Mason is going to Louisiana under the pretext of looking into the operation of the sugar-bounty clause of the tariff act. This is a sham and humbug, as Deputy Commissioner Wilson has just returned to this city after an extended tour of Louisiana, accompanied by five special agents of the internal revenue bureau.

The secret of Mason's trip is that the Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee internal revenue officials are leaning towards Blaine for the presidency, and after Blaine to Alger.

In Illinois the revenue officials seem to be under the influence of Senator Cullom, who believes that he is in the presidential swim himself up to his ears and is working the federal officials whom he can control accordingly.

Mason will serve very plain notice on the internal revenue collectors, gaugers, inspectors and other officials that they must not only work for Blaine or Alger, but that they must work for Harrison. If they are not willing to pledge themselves to forego their personal choice for the presidency and turn in to help in the election of Harrison delegates to the national convention some excuse is to be found by Mason for turning them out of office promptly on his return to Washington.

In addition to disciplining the internal Revenue Commissioners Mason is expected to put the screws on the whiskey trust at Peoria, Ill., and Chicago, and see that a little fat from that source is put into the Harrison campaign pan.

Ex-Senator Kellogg, of Louisiana, happens to be aware of the object of Mason's mission to his state, and there is some reason to believe that he is already taking the action necessary to offset the anticipated results of the journey.

The delegation to the national convention from Louisiana will not be for Harrison if Kellogg can prevent it. The chances are, too, that Shelby M. Cullom will have to withdraw his little boom from public view if he expects to keep his friends in office in Illinois.

Harrison is after him and has made up his mind that none but Harrison men will be placed on guard in the federal offices.

Cullom has been tenderly nursing his little boom for more than a year past, but now he will be compelled to take it in or to see his satraps now holding federal offices in Illinois wiped out of the public service. Harrison is in earnest.

He has discovered that it will require fighting to control the next convention, and he is ready to fight.

BREAK IN A GAS MAIN.

Fatal Accident in Chicago Yesterday.

One Man Killed and Four Others So Seriously Affected That They May Die.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Matthias Picrowski was asphyxiated and four other employes were so seriously affected that they will probably die by the breaking of a gas main at the Illinois Steel company's mills at South Chicago last night.

The names of the injured are: James Whiting, aged 22; Frank Bunk, aged 22; Wm. Matthews, aged 25; Henry Matthews, aged 32, and an unknown man.

DOWN TO BUSINESS.

Fifteenth Annual Convention of the Knights of Labor,

Opened This Morning in Walbridge Hall.

General Master-Workman T. V. Powderly Brings Down the Gavel and the Credential Committee Reports—Other Committees Appointed.

The general assembly opened late this morning, owing to the arrival of the general master workman being delayed until 11 o'clock. Long before that hour the delegates began to gather in Walbridge hall, and all expressed themselves delighted with the preparations made for their receptions. The hall does look very handsome this morning, and reflects great credit on the local assemblies of the city who prepared it. The description of the decorations was given in yesterday's Bee.

Large delegations came in last night from New York, Philadelphia and other eastern points, and now it can with truth be said that every state and territory in the union has its representatives here. From over the Canada border there is also a good representation, the largest delegations coming from Toronto and Quebec.

All the general officers are here except Congressman John Davis, of Junction City, Kansas, member of the executive board, who met with a slight railroad accident a few days ago.

It was 11 o'clock when General Worthy Foreman Cavanaugh of Cincinnati called the convention to order, appointing W. H. Dennis of D. A. 72, Toledo, keeper of the door.

Explaining the non-arrival of General Master Workman Powderly, and that he would be present before the session closed, the report of the committee on credentials was called for, and presented by Chairman O'Neill.

Who Are Delegates.

District assemblies from 1 to 258, each having a membership of not less than 1,000, are represented, and the trades assemblies represented are: Window glass workers, clothing cutters, shoemakers, cigar makers, coal miners, plate-glass workers, street car men, railroad men, surface car men, salesmen, silk weavers, and national trades assemblies 75, 82, 128, 135, 160, 181, 188, 216, 222, 230, 231, 240, 246, 252, 253, which trades are not given to the public.

The following state assemblies are also separately represented: Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Dakota, Georgia, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Carolina, Ohio, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin.

In all there are not less than 150 delegates present, representing a constituency of not less than 500,000 members.

There are, as usual, a few contested cases, all of which will be amicably settled. It is esteemed a high honor to be a member of this highest legislative body of the order, and naturally a little rivalry exists in the different sections of the country as to who shall have the honor. Sometimes the matter is not settled until the general assembly settles it, but the decision of the majority here will be gracefully accepted by all concerned.

The Chief Arrives.

The report of the committee on credentials was under discussion, when General Master Workman Powderly arrived, and was welcomed with prolonged applause.

The assembly was opened in due form, and in the usual impressive manner by Mr. Powderly, when he had taken the chair, and the delegates against whom there is no protest were seated.

THE GENERAL OFFICERS.

Sketches of the Present Chief Executives of the Order.

Mr. Powderly was born January 22, 1849, in the city of Carbondale, at the head of the historic Lackawanna valley, Pa. His parents, who came from Ireland, were sturdy, honest people who dignified labor by working hard and making their home happy and contented with the fruits of their toil. Their boy, Terence, went to school in the "Pioneer City," as Carbondale was called, until he reached the age of 13, when he felt that the time had arrived for doing something more practical, and found employment with the Delaware & Hudson Canal company, guarding a point at which a number of railroad switches were placed, to prevent any tampering with them. That he did this work well and faithfully was shown by the fact that at the age of 14 he was appointed by the same company to the responsible position of car examiner. When he reached 17 years of age he was apprenticed to learn the trade of machinist in the Delaware & Hudson shops. He was quick to learn and to plan, and proved a great favorite with his employers and fellow workmen, notwithstanding the buoyant spirit which frequently tempted him to play pranks on those about him, who could understand and appreciate a good joke and make allowances for those ebullitions of humor which are characteristic of the fun-loving, happy hearted boy. After serving three years at this trade he went to Scranton, and, at the age of 20, was employed in the locomotive shop of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad company. From the first he was a close student and a keen observer of events, and as his field of observation widened he managed to keep pace with it in storing his mind with knowledge. His first entrance into a labor organization was in 1871, when he joined the Machinists' and Blacksmiths' union of Scranton. He was elected president of the subordinate union to which he belonged in 1872, and in the same year was united in marriage to the bright and gracious woman who still rules at his domestic hearth.

In the year 1873, some three weeks after Jay Cooke's failure, Mr. Powderly was discharged from the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western shops because of his activity in union matters. His counsel and his course were always conservative, but the history of labor movements show that such men are invariably among the first to suffer when there is any considerable clash between capital and labor. After his discharge Mr. Powderly was made to feel keenly the penalties of incurring the displeasure of corporate power, and the injustice exercised toward him would make an interesting story in itself.

Being unable to find work in this region because of the unreasonable prejudices

Wisconsin Is Heading Toward Democracy.

Republican Corruption Has Made the People Desperate.

Treasury Suits Against Sawyer to Collect Large Sums of Money That His Followers Have Robbed From the State.

Milwaukee, Nov. 10.—The political flurry in Wisconsin over the clash between Senator Sawyer and ex-Congressman La Follette has been watched with deep interest by men of both parties, notwithstanding the excitement of the election.

The standing of the two men and the circumstances surrounding their quarrel lead republicans to fear and democrats to hope that the outcome of it all will be that Wisconsin will become an irretrievably democratic state.

The cause of the difference between the senator and the young ex-congressman is well understood in Washington, where all last winter the so-called treasury suits in Wisconsin were discussed almost daily by northwestern politicians.

For nearly 20 years Senator Sawyer has been a bondsman for republican state treasurers in his state.

All these treasurers, without exception, have been nominated at his dictation, and most of them have been his townsmen.

Ex-Congressman Guenther, who is now consul general to Mexico, held the office of state treasurer two terms, having been picked up by Mr. Sawyer out of an Oshkosh drug store and elected almost before he knew it. E. C. McFetridge and H. D. Harshaw, who each held the office several terms, were also proteges of the wily old senator.

All of these men have been in the habit of depositing the state funds in various republican banks throughout the state, from which interest has been received, usually at the rate of 3 per cent, notwithstanding a law on the statue books requiring these funds to be kept in the vaults of the state treasury in the capitol at Madison.

At one time Uncle Jerry Rusk, who was then governor of the Badger state, protested against this violation of the law, and threatened to bring Uncle Philetus' man to taw. Thereupon Sawyer went down to Madison and appeared suddely in front of Uncle Jerry's desk.

"Jerry, do you mean to say that we've got to put that money in your old chicken coop vaults here in the capitol?" he demanded.

"That's what the law says," replied Uncle Jerry.

"I don't care a —— what the law says. You might just as well put that money out on the steps of the capitol here as to keep it in the vaults. What the —— do you suppose your one-legged and one-armed watchman here would do if a good able-bodied burglar should come along some night and pull out the bricks in your vault and load up his wagon with the state funds and get away?"

"Why, Sawyer," said Uncle Jerry, "those vaults are all right, and, beside, I've got 15 good men here, every one of them old soldiers who have smelt powder and know how to fight."

"Oh, hang your 15 men. I could come in here any night and clean them all out alone. I tell you, if you don't leave that money alone where it is, I'll take my name off that bond inside of 24 hours."

And that was the end of it. Uncle Jerry succumbed to Uncle Philetus' bluff, and the money stayed in the banks. These banks were selected practically by Mr. Sawyer, and as there are a good many of them they represented an important part of Senator Sawyer's political machine in Wisconsin. Among them, notwithstanding his plea in behalf of the vaults in the capitol, was the bank in Vernon county, of which Uncle Jerry Rusk has always been president.

With the election of the democratic administration in Wisconsin last year there began at once the agitation of the question whether the various republican ex-treasurers could be made to return to the state the interest they had received on state moneys placed in private banks.

This at once put Senator Sawyer in a decidedly unpleasant position. One at least of these ex-treasurers had gone through bankruptcy, and the interest he had received during his four terms of service would have to be paid by Senator Sawyer, if it could be collected of anybody.

This interest is roughly estimated to be about $120,000 for that treasurer alone.

As some of the bondsmen are dead, and others are not so easily accessible through the courts as Senator Sawyer, there naturally rested upon him a heavy burden of defense.

The democratic attorney general began test suits, and Senator Sawyer retained C. W. Felkner and S. U. Pinney, two of the best known democratic lawyers in Wisconsin. The facts, after a good deal of legal skirmishing, stand admitted, and the trial of the test case is to decide simply legal questions.

The defense rely upon the fact that the law of the state made the treasurer not only the custodian of state moneys, but also the insurer against any possible loss. The supreme court of Colorado has decided in a similar case that this responsibility justifies a state treasurer in depositing funds in a number of banks, so as to divide and thereby reduce the possibility of loss, and also to require interest at a low rate, so that in case of any loss he shall be able to indemnify the state. It is practically the same question which has arisen in Pennsylvania.

BURGLAR CAUGHT.

Fostoria, O., Nov. 10.—One of the men who burglarized M. Mergenthaler's home last Friday afternoon was caught at Tiffin on Saturday night. Some of the stolen jewelry, coins and a necktie were found on the man. A revolver was also taken from him identified as belonging to E. Smith, who also had his house burglarized in daytime some time since. The fellow caught is a resident of Tiffin, who, it seems, has been plundering Fostoria homes for some time. His pal has not yet been found.

Lawlor and Andrews To Make Another Trip.

This Time They Will Undertake to Cross the Ocean in Folding Canvas Boats Twelve Feet Long.

New York, Nov. 10.—(Special)—The unpleasant experiences of those hardy mariners who crossed the Atlantic alone in cockleshells—Captain Josiah W. Lawlor of the dory Sea Serpent and Captain William A. Andrews of the dory Mermaid—does not seem to have scared the spirit of adventure out of them, for they are going to tempt Providence again by sailing over in even smaller boats than they used before.

In their last race these men left Boston together on the evening of June 21 in fifteen-foot dories. Captain Lawlor, in the Sea Serpent, after innumerable adventures and frightful privations, arrived safe and sound at Coverack, near the Lizard, England, on Aug. 5, just forty-five days out. Captain Andrews of the Mermaid had even a worse experience. His boat capsized on two occasions during storms, ruining his provisions, and for a time it looked as though he never would right her, but right her he did.

A shark followed him for days looking for a square meal, but he would not give up. When at last he sighted a ship instead of leaving his boat he stuck to her, and after getting some fresh provisions proceeded on his way. The strain proved too great, however, and ten days later he was picked up by Captain Brown of the British steamer Elberg in a sick and exhausted condition, and was taken to Antwerp, where he heard the first news of Captain Lawlor's success.

It was said at the time that neither man would ever try it again, but it would be like keeping a duck from the water to prevent them.

They are both very good friends in spite of their rivalry, and are now in New York full of plans for their next trip. In their last race they both used wooden keel boats differing somewhat in design. Now they are going to try to cross in folding canvas sloop rigged boats 12 feet long, 44 inches beam, 14 inches deep amidships and 22 inches deep forward and aft, with displacement of about 600 pounds.

Captain Lawlor will call his boat the Christopher Columbus. This time he will probably start from S. Johns, N. F. He expects to make the voyage in about twenty-five days and will start in May.

Captain Andrews will leave at about the same time from New York, starting from the Battery in his little craft, which he has christened the Flying Dutchman.

In addition to his last trip Captain Andrews, in 1878, sailed across the Atlantic with his brother Asa in the Nautilus in forty-five days. In 1888 he started to sail across in the Dark Secret, but after sixty-two days of peril was picked up by the Norwegian ship Nor.

Captain Lawlor, in 1889, went across in the thirty-six foot sloop Neversink. If he succeeds in his next venture it will be his third trip over in a cockleshell.

JACKSON WANTS TO FIGHT.

A Challenge Issued to Frank P. Slavin.

Peter Thinks That As Sullivan Cannot Enter the Ring for At Least a Year, That He Will Fill the Bill.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—At the request of Peter Jackson, "Parson" Davis has extended to Frank Slavin the following offer through the London, Eng., Sporting Life:

"Inasmuch as Mr. John L. Sullivan states that he will not be in a position to arrange a contest with Mr. Frank P. Slavin, or any one else, until the expiration of his theatrical contract next June, and as he would then doubtless need several months in which to train, which would make it almost a year before a meeting could take place between them, I desire to say that I will fight Mr. Slavin to a finish under Marquis of Queensberry rules, for a purse of $10,000, which I understand the California Athletic club will put up, and I will wager him $2,500 that he does not defeat me, the contest to take place three or four months from the date of signing articles.

"Mr. Slavin, I see, claims to be heavyweight champion of Australia, a title which I won, still hold, and am open to defend against all comers. If he can defeat me he will honestly be entitled to what he now claims and be in a better position to meet Mr. Sullivan for the world's championship. When the time comes I trust Mr. Slavin will see the force of what I have to say and favor with an early acceptance of my offer.

CHARLES E. DAVIS,
for PETER JACKSON,
25 Turk street, San Francisco, Cal."

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Robert Downing As Antony in Julius Cæsar.

After Dark All Week at the People's—Frank Daniels—Evans and Hoey.

Shakespeare's great work, Julius Caesar, received a masterly rendition by Robert Downing and his splendid company at Wheeler's opera house last evening. Mr. Downing has always been a prime favorite with Toledo people, and he was greeted with a large and fashionable audience, who manifested much approval of his work.

The part of Marc Antony brought out capabilities in Mr. Downing that had not been displayed here, and showed him in new lines of strength. Downing is supported by a strong company, and the work of Fred C. Mosely, as Cassius deserves especial mention. Other members of the company carried their parts well, with the exception of Edwin Ferry, as Brutus, who was very weak.

The audience was also much pleased over the appearance of Eugenie Blair, although the character of Portia is unimportant.

After Dark.

"After Dark" at the People's last night drew a packed house regardless of the bad weather, and those who ventured out were well entertained.

"After Dark" is a pretty story, involving the adverse and prosperous sides of life in London, and possesses many points that cannot help pleasing the average audience. The introduction of specialty business between the fourth and fifth acts is a bad feature, as it demoralizes the run of the play at a highly interesting point. The cast is fairly well adapted to the piece. Old Tom, Gordon Chumley, Eliza and Rose Egerton received special favor, and the characters were exceptionally well developed. Jim Corbett and Jim Daly, in a three-round bout with the gloves, received an ovation.

"After Dark" will be at the People's all week. "Master and Man" next week.

Frank Daniels.

Frank Daniels has three new plays in his trunk. He proposes, however, to stick to "Little Puck" as long as the public wants it. This fantastic comedy made $20,000 for Mr. Daniels last season, and its popularity appears this season to be greater than ever. This it is that he will put on at Wheeler's to-morrow evening with his big company of fine comedy artists.

A New Parlor Match.

"A Parlor Match," with the new innovations which will be introduced by Evans and Hoey, will be the bill at the Wheeler on Thursday evening. "A Parlor Match" is one of the best things Hoyt ever turned out, and with two such comedians as Evans and Hoey at its head it presents one of the most amusing of entertainments. Evans and Hoey are well known here, and many a hearty laugh has been indulged in of their creating.

EXPENSIVE EXPERIENCE.

An Eastern Farmer Kicked to Death by a Gun.

He Did Not Know It Was Loaded and Put Another Charge In With Fatal Results.

New York, Nov. 10.—August Anderson, a farmer living near Woodbury, L. I., was kicked to death by a gun. He was kicked a week ago but it took him five days to die. No one found out what ailed him until abnormal mortification had become so deep seated that his life could not be saved.

Anderson was a German and unable to speak a word of English. He had an American wife, who did not understand a word of German, and none of the neighbors could speak the language either.

The gun that killed Anderson was left loaded for him by the man whose widow he married. The charge had been in the gun three years. George Ruscoe loaded the gun three days before he died. Mrs. Ruscoe knew nothing about the gun being loaded. It was an old-fashioned muzzle-loader.

Anderson did not know much about the use of a gun. When he supplanted the departed Ruscoe in Mrs. Ruscoe's affections and home he found the gun in a closet. It was rusty. He cleaned the barrel and the lock with kerosene oil and concluded that the best way to clean the chamber would be to load it and fire it off. He had never loaded a gun before, and therefore did not know when he let the ramrod down the barrel that the gun was already loaded.

He lifted the trigger, put a cap on the nipple, and, holding the gun within six inches of his abdomen, he fired it off.

The gun, from the overloading, kicked with such force that Anderson was thrown ten feet. He received a terrible blow. That was a week ago. Anderson recovered from the shock quickly and walked to Dr. Overton's office, which is about a mile from where he lived.

He could not tell the doctor what had happened to him. From his pantomimic gestures Dr. Overton concluded that he was suffering from colic and gave him a bottle of cholera medicine.

Anderson walked back to his home and went to bed and kept taking the cholera mixture for four days.

His condition grew rapidly worse, and on Wednesday Dr. Overton was summoned. An interpreter was called in from a distant farm, and then for the first time the real nature of Anderson's injuries was ascertained. It was too late to counteract the blood poison and Anderson died.

A London letter says the colony of Sierra Leone is 106 years old, and yet it is said that there is no machinery there except the sewing machine. The population is upward of 50,000, and not a saw mill or any other kind of a mill is in operation. There is plenty of building material, stone and wood, and as for bricks, if anybody would make them and set them up in the sun they would "burn themselves" if left alone.

A LADY'S PERIL.

The Dangers to be Apprehended From Catarrh and Consumption at This Time of the Year.

When the tendency of the catarrhal progress is evidently to the chest and lungs, and the hacking cough, loss of flesh, pain in the chest, and failing strength give their unmistakable evidence of predisposition to consumption, the patient should spare no pains and lose no time in arresting what is practical and imminent danger. With the coming of winter, which, if the predictions of the weather prophets are true, will be an unusually severe one, the care of cases like these becomes of even more than usual importance.

Catarrh and Consumption

which go hand in hand, in this climate of ours, should be met at this season with the the most faithful, persistent and skillful care. Continued evidence of the result obtained by the skillful personal care and attention of Drs. Copeland and Buffett may be noticed in such cases as that given below by Miss S. Chattinger, who resides at 2521 Cherry street, and is employed at the Toledo Knitting Works on Superior street. Her experience given in her own words is as follows:

"Previous to a year ago last June I had very fair health, but at that time I began to fail and since then the miseries I have endured would baffle description."

Miss S. Chattinger, 2521 Cherry St.

"My trouble began with what I supposed was ague, the bones throughout my entire body ached, my flesh seemed tender and sore to the touch, I had a headache nearly every day, I was always dull and drowsy. Then, though it was in the summer time, I would catch cold very easy, my nose would clog up, scales would form on both sides, completely filling the nasal passages. My eyes became weak and watery. The secretions from the head would drop into the throat, irritating it so as to keep me constantly hawking and spitting to keep it clear. In about three months time this condition of affairs had reached the lungs and stomach. I began to have annoying pains through the chest and back, and most peculiar sensations about the heart. For three months I coughed so hard that my throat and stomach were kept continually sore by the strain. I had no appetite and was fast losing flesh and strength, when I was induced to consult Drs. Copeland and Buffett. You can say for me that I cannot too highly recommend these specialists. They had an intelligent understanding of my case from the very start, one by one the symptoms began leaving me until to-day I am a well woman."

This statement can easily be verified by seeing or writing Miss Chattinger at the above address.

DOWN TO BUSINESS.

against labor unions, Mr. Powderly went west. He worked for some time in Galion, O., and Oil City, Pa., and in 1875 came back to Scranton and was employed by the Lackawanna Iron and Coal company in the erection of the new steel works then in course of construction. When the machinery was all in place Mr. Powderly went to work for the Dickson Manufacturing company in its locomotive department at the Cliff works, where he continued until April, 1877, when the company suspended all its employes for want of orders.

Mr. Powderly's poltical life in Scranton began in 1878, he being elected mayor of that city on the 19th of February, after a stormy campaign. His clean and creditable administration commanded the respect of even those who were most bitterly opposed to him as a candidate and who professed to fear that the city would "go to the dogs" if a representative of labor was chosen as its chief magistrate. Mayor Powderly introduced many reforms. His message to the councils always sparkled with practical suggestions; he gave the appointment of an efficient police force his careful attention, and the verdict of the unbiased, before half his term was served, was that Scranton had never a better mayor. He was re elected in 1880 and again in 1882.

But it is as a member of the Knights of Labor, and for many years the ruling spirit of that great order, of which he is now the chief, that Mr. Powderly is best known and will be remembered. He joined the oganization in 1876, formally, although he had been sworn in as one of its first members in 1874, and was for many years the zealous and intelligent advocate of a system that would unite all branches of labor into one compact body. He had realized by personal experience that trade organizations were ineffectual for the great work of benefiting the condition of toiling humanity. The clannishness of each special craft was but natural, and while there might be in a general way sympathy among carpenters with railroadmen or shoemakers it lacked that degree of effectiveness that would prevail if carpenters, railroad men, shoemakers and others made common cause for their common wefare. This was the great principle underlying the Knights of Labor, that men of all trades might unite for the general weal, taking for their motto the comprehensive and expressive maxim:

An injury to one is the concern of all.

Mr. Powderly was among the first and most fervent advocates of this principle, and in a broader sense than any other of the founders of the order since he came to it, with original aims and purposes of his own that were calculated to make it bolder and more liberal, and consequently more potent for good, than the organization first planned by Uriah Stephens and his associates, and projected as a secret, oath-bound institution. Mr. Powderly's policy from the start was to keep the organization as much as possible in harmony with public opinion on abstract questions of right. Whenever public opinion differed with the organization, he believed in bringing public opinion to its side if this could be done without a sacrifice of principle. When it could not be done he adhered to the principle, and courageously proclaimed his views for the consideration of thinking men in and out of the order.

In the month of February, 1877, District Assembly No. 5 was organized in Scranton, and Mr. Powderly was elected its corresponding secretary, a position which he held until his duties as general master workman took him away from home so much that he could not attend to the local office.

In the year 1878 all the branches of the Knights of Labor were called together in general assembly at Reading, Pa., and Assembly No. 5, of Scranton, formed another Assembly No. 5 there from another part of the country, and, surrendering its right to that number, took No. 16, by which it has been known since.

In January, 1879, at the general assembly of the order, which met in St. Louis, Mr. Powderly was elected general worthy foreman, and in September of that year he was elected general master workman, the highest position in the organization, which he still fills with conspicuous ability and honor. The term of office was for one year until 1886, when it was changed to two years. At every subsequent meeting of the general assembly Mr. Powderly has been elected general master workman by an overwhelming vote, despite the predictions always made for months in advance that he would be defeated.

His salary for the first four years was $400 a year, out of which meagre sum he paid all his expenses as general master workman, devoting what was left to the building up of the order. In 1883 his salary as general master workman was increased to $800, in 1884 to $1,500, and in 1886 to $5,000 per annum. At the Atlanta session of the general assembly the salary was again fixed at $5,000, but Mr. Powderly informed the convention that he would draw but $3,000 for the year. At the Denver session, in 1890, the motion that the salary of the general master workman be $5,000 a year was not concurred in, because Mr. Powderly asked that it be fixed at $3,500, which was done on his motion.

The present is the thirteenth annual session over which General Master Workman Powderly has presided, and it is evident the number will not in this case prove an unlucky one.

General Worthy Foreman Cavanaugh.

Few men in Europe or America have given more time and thought to the interests of the masses than Mr. Hugh Cavanaugh, present general worthy foreman of the Knights of Labor.

He was born in Morille, Ireland, in 1850, and was a little toddler of two years old when his parents came to America and took up residence in the good old town of Boston. Young Cavanaugh was sent to the grammar schools of that city, where he applied himself studiously and gave promise of exceptional talents. When but fifteen years of age circumstances obliged him to quit school and learn a trade, and he chose that of shoemaking.

When nineteen years old he joined the Knights of St. Crispin, came west two years later, and has worked at his trade in all the largest cities of the west. He has been a resident of Cincinnati for seventeen years. He has held the highest executive office in the gift of the K. of L. in this district, and at the last annual meeting of the order in Denver he was elected general worthy foreman, ranking in position next to General Master Workman Powderly.

In 1889 he was the first man chosen by the Scripps League, as the representative of the boot and shoe trade of the United States, to report to the papers of that league the condition of the boot and shoe industry in England, Ireland and Scotland, and a report from the Continent. On this trip he visited, besides the above countries, France, Germany, Belgium and Holland. At Birmingham, England, a grand reception was given by the labor organizations of that city, when Mr. Cavanaugh and other members of the league distinguished themselves by their happy speeches.

At Paris the delegation decided to decorate the statue of Liberty in the Place de Republique, and he was selected to be the orator of the day. His address, which touched upon the happy relations existing between France and the United States, was listened to by ten thousand people, who congregated to attend the ceremonies. The next morning the Paris papers published his speech in full, and it was cabled to the leading papers of America and read on this side of the water at the same time.

Mr. Cavanaugh has organized the retail salesmen of Cincinnati, and already their united efforts have borne excellent results. He is associate editor of "The Salesman," published at Cincinnati in the interest of salesmen, clerks, bookkeepers and cashiers, and is in business in that city, manager of the Emerson shoe store.

At the recent state people's party convention, held at Springfield, O., he was chosen temporary chairman, and opened the convention with a ringing speech that sounded the keynote of the new party in this state. The committee on permanent organization were out but a few minutes when they brought in a unanimous recommendation to make him permanent chairman.

Mr. Cavanaugh has organized upwards of sixty assemblies, has frequently served in official capacities, but never in any instance has he sought for office. It has come to him undesired, often reluctantly accepting. He believes in standing for and sticking to principle.

He is married and has a family of five bright and interesting children. No home is more genial and happy; and as a friend, official, and citizen, he lives in the love and respect of his fellow men.

General Secretary-Treasurer Hayes.

John W. Hayes, general secretary, was born in the city of Philadelphia on December 26, 1854. He resided in the city of brotherly love during the early part of his life, and in 1871 moved with his parents to New Brunswick, N. J. From his 17th to his 24th year he was employed as brakeman on the railroad, and while following that arduous and perilous undertaking he met with an accident which ended his railroad career and came near ending his life. While attending to his duties he was thrown under one of the cars and had his right arm so badly mangled that amputation was necessary. No more braking after that. Maimed as he was, he turned his attention to learning a new trade, studied telegraphy, became an expert operator, and worked at the key till 1883. Since 1874 Mr. Hayes has been an active member of the order, and was an untiring worker for the first general master workman, Uriah S. Stephens.

After becoming a telegrapher he worked zealously to organize the members of the craft. His efforts proved successful, and he was sent to Chicago as a delegate to the national convention of Telegraphers, which met in that city, and ordered the Western Union strike of 1883. His activity in that uprising made him conspicuous and he was among those who were blacklisted by the Western Union company. He was one of the organizers of the New Jersey Labor congress, and served two terms as president. At the Philadelphia session of the general assembly, in the following year, Mr. Hayes was elected a member of the general executive board; at the Hamilton session in 1882 he was re-elected; at the session held in Richmond he was elected for a further term of two years. At Indianapolis, in 1888, he was the choice of the convention for secretary-treasurer, which office he has since held with credit to himself and profit to the order, whose interests have been carefully protected during his admirable administration.

In his every day intercourse with his fellow men, Mr. Hayes is polite and affable, possessed of strong convictions and expressing them clearly and concisely. He is a faithful and competent officer and a true and zealous knight. No one has a more thorough and perfect knowledge of the workings of the order than he, and his sincerity in the cause cannot be called in question. The character of his private life and the uniform tenor of his public conduct will bear the closest scrutiny, and his kind and genial disposition has won for him many true, loyal and admiring friends.

A. W. Wright.

A. W. Wright is a native of Canada, having been born in the township of Markham, about thirty miles north of Toronto. He received his education mainly in the New Hamburg (Ont.) village school. After leaving school he learned several branches of the woolen trade, but in 1874 left the woolen business and took a position as reporter on the Guelph (Ont.) Herald. He afterwards edited several newspapers, and while editor of the Toronto National in 1879 took a leading part in the currency reform movement—the counterpart of the greenback movement in the United States. This may be said to have been his first connection with the labor cause, though from his boyhood he was a diligent student of political and social economy, and a firm believer in those principles of reform which are embodied in the platform of principles in the Knights of Labor. In 1879 he was elected secretary of the Canadian Currency Reform league, of which the late Hon. Isaac Buchanan was president. Along with the late Mr. William Wallace, M. P., he represented as an invited guest, that organization at the great greenback convention at Chicago. His address to the convention was one of the features of that memorable gathering. In 1890 he, with Mr. L. P. Kribs, now managing editor of the Toronto Empire, and J. R. Cameron, at present managing editor of the Hamilton Spectator, established the Toronto Commonwealth in the interest of land, labor and currency reform. The paper was ahead of its time and did not prove a success. He was editor of the Canadian Labor Reformer up to the time of his election on the general executive board.

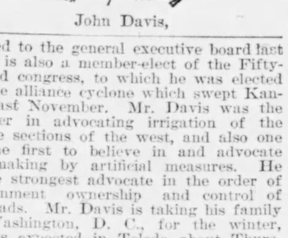
On the invitation of the state committee of the national greenback-labor partly he delivered addresses in the states of Maine, Michigan, Iowa, Kansas, New York and New Jersey during the electoral campaigns of 1880-1.

He joined the Knights of Labor in 1882, and has been a delegate to D. A. 125 since its formation, except during a few months while absent in England as the commercial representative of the Canadian government at the Colonial and Indian exhibition in 1886. He held the position of district worthy foreman one term, and was then elected district recording secretary, which position he held until his duties as general lecturer necessitated his resignation. He was also master workman of Hugo assembly No. 7814, Toronto. He was delegate from D. A. 125 of Toronto to the Indianapolis, Atlanta and Denver sessions of the general assembly.

Mr. Wright's "Spokeshave" contributions to the columns of the Journal of the Knights of Labor, his "Talks About People and Things" in the Reformer and also his editorial writings have made for him a wide reputation as a writer on economic subjects. When the general master workman was looking about for men to go out as teachers of the doctrines of knighthood he selected Mr. Wright as one of those to be sent out under the educational call.

At the Indianapolis session of the general assembly in 1888 he was elected a member of the general executive board, and in July following he was assigned to duty as editor of the Journal of the Knights of Labor. The duties of both these offices he continues ably to discharge.

In the little village of Minersville, Schuylkill county, Pa., nearly forty-five years ago, John Devlin, member of the general executive board, made his first public utterance concerning his right to live. It was a squall, to be sure, and an Irish squall at that, but it gave evidence of a determination to be heard and established a reputation that has grown with advancing years. John spent his early boyhood on a farm, and later started to learn the painters' trade; but when the call for volunteers reached his hamlet in August, 1861, he felt called upon to enlist, and although only 16 years of age did a soldier's duty, remaining with his regiment—the Forty-eighth Pennsylvania volunteers—until the close of the war, and participating in nearly all of its engagements through Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee. He was seriously wounded in the right hand and arm by a canister shot at the storming of Petersburg, Va., in April, 1865.



John Devlin.

After the war he started in the grocery business at Shenandoah, Pa., and later moved to Philadelphia, where he was married. Failing in health, he went to Detriot in 1879, and started in his old trade of painting in the Pullman car works, where he worked until 1882.

In the fall of 1882 the Detroit Council of Trade and Labor unions, seeing the necessity for labor men in the legislature, nominated John Devlin as one of the seven capable of representing them, and, receiving a democratic indorsement, he was triumphantly elected. All the session no one's voice was raised so often in favor of justice to wage workers as his, and his appointment as deputy labor commissioner came as well-earned recognition of his services. On the appointment of C. V. R. Pond as labor commissioner in 1885 Mr. Devlin stepped down and out, only to have the appointment of United States consul to Windsor, Ontario, a few months later, in which he served until removed by President Harrison.

John Devlin, like all true soldiers, believes in obeying orders. And this, coupled with superior executive ability, intelligence, tact and an honesty that is proof against the wiles of those who wish him to use his influence in the order for the political benefit of those with whom he is affiliated has given him the enviable position he occupies in labor's army to-day. He is one of the best known men in the general assembly, having been a representative at many sessions. At the Indianapolis session in 1888 he was elected a member of the general executive board, on which he is still serving.

John Davis,

elected to the general executive board last year, is also a member-elect of the Fifty-second congress, to which he was elected by the alliance cyclone which swept Kansas last November. Mr. Davis was the pioneer in advocating irrigation of the sterile sections of the west, and also one of the first to believe in and advocate rain-making by artificial measures. He is the strongest advocate in the order of government ownership and control of railroads. Mr. Davis is taking his family to Washington, D. C., for the winter, and is expected in Toledo about Thursday.

The Knights of Labor Platform.

Calling upon all who believe in securing "the greatest good to the greatest number" to join and assist us, we declare to the world that our aims are:

I. To make industrial and moral worth, not wealth, the true standard of individual and national greatness.

II. To secure to the workers the full enjoyment of the wealth they create; sufficient leisure in which to develop their intellectual, moral and social faculties, all of the benefits, recreations and pleasures of association; in a word, to enable them to share in the gains and honors of advancing civilization.

In order to secure these results, we demand at the hands of the law-making power of the state and nation:

III. The establishment of bureaus of labor statistics, that we may arrive at a correct knowledge of the educational, moral and financial condition of the laboring masses.

IV. The land, including all the natural sources of wealth, is the heritage of all the people, and should not be subject to speculative traffic. Occupancy and use should be the only title to the possession of land. The taxes upon land should be levied upon its full value for use, exclusive of improvements, and should be sufficient to take for the community all unearned increment.

V. The abrogation of all laws that do not bear equally upon capitalists and laborers, and the removal of unjust technicalities, delays and discriminations in the administration of justice.

VI. The adoption of measures providing for the health and safety of those engaged in mining, manufacturing and building industries, and for indemnification to those engaged therein for injuries received through lack of necessary safeguards.

VII. The recognition, by incorporation, of orders and other associations organized by the workers to improve their condition and to protect their rights.

VIII. The enactment of laws to compel corporations to pay their employes weekly, in lawful money, for the labor of the preceding week, and give mechanics and laborers a first lien upon the product of their labor to the full extent of their full wages.

IX. The abolition of the contract system on national, state and municipal works.

X. The enactment of laws providing for arbitration between employers and employed, and to enforce the decision of the arbitrators.

XI. The prohibition, by law, of the employment of children under 15 years of age.

XII. To prohibit the hiring out of convict labor.

XIII. That a graduated income tax be levied.

XIV. The establishment of an national monetary system, in which a circulating medium in necessary quantity shall issue directly to the people, without the intervention of banks; that all the national issue shall be full legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private; and that the government shall not guarantee or recognize any private banks or create any banking corporations.

XV. That interest-bearing bonds, bills of credit or notes shall never be issued by the government; but that, when need arises, the emergency shall be met by issue of legal-tender, non-interest-bearing money.

XVI. That the importation of foreign labor under contract be prohibited.

XVII. That in connection with the post-office, the government shall organize financial exchanges, safe deposits and facilities for deposits of savings of the people in small sums.

XVIII. That the government shall obtain possession, by purchase, under the right of eminent domain, of all telegraphs, telephones and railroads; and that hereafter no charter or license be issued to any corporation for construction or operation of any means of transporting intelligence, passengers or freight.

And while making the foregoing demands upon the state and national government, we will endeavor to associtae our own labors:

XIX. To establish co-operative institutions, such as will tend to supersede the wage syste mby the introduction of a co-operative industrial system.

XX. To secure for both sexes equal rights.

XXI. To gain some of the benefits of the labor-saving machinery by a gradual reduction of the hours of labor to eight per day.

XXII. To persuade employers to agree to arbitrate all differences which may arise between them and their employes, in order that the bonds of sympathy between them may be strengthened and that strikes may be rendered unnecessary.

Women Delegates.

This session of the general assembly is credited with four women delegates: Mrs. Anna Steele, of Denver, representing the state assembly of Colorado; Mrs. Catharine F. Kern, D. A. 106, Indianapolis, Ind.; Miss Lizzie Donahue, of Patterson, N. J., representing N. T. A. 222, silk ribbon weavers; Mrs. Mary A. Pierce, Cohoes, N. Y., representing D. A. 104.

Mrs Steele, a bright-faced lady of unassuming manners, was the first of these to arrive, coming in late yesterday afternoon. She is an active worker in the K. of L., and in the city where she has made her home she has been for many years identified with the work of helping her sex to obtain that "equal pay for equal work" which is one of the demands of the Knights of Labor. She is also an active worker in the W. C. T. U. and kindred organizations.

Miss Donahue, since her election as delegate, has suffered an irreparable loss in the death of her father, and may not attend. Mrs. Pierce has not yet arrived.

Mrs. Kern is a member of 6437, Indianapolis, a mixed local, with membership made up of both women and men. She has been a member of the order since April, 1886, and a faithful worker therein. This is the second time Mrs. Kern has been a delegate to the G. A., she having attended the convention at Atlanta in 1889. She has been nine terms secretary in the local, and in the district has held the offices of recording secretary and worthy foreman. Mrs. Kern is an ardent suffragist, and is now assisting in the formation of a suffrage society in Indianapolis. She reports that a woman's local lately organized in Indianapolis has splendid material in it.

Congratulations Received.

A message was received and read from the Brotherhood of Boilermakers, as follows:

T. V. Powderly, Gen. M. W., K. of L.:

Dear Sir—On behalf of the National Brotherhood of Boilermakers of the United States, I extend to you, and through you the noble Order you have the honor to represent, hearty congratulations for the excellent auspices under which you are now assembled.

Trusting that your Order in the future will develop much of benefit for the welfare and amelioration of the oppressed in whose interests your society is justly celebrated for its earnest efforts put forth in behalf thereof, and of those who have learned to love its principles because charity and justice unto all is guaranteed in every measure advocated.

JERRY McCARTHY,
Grand President.

Kimberley, September 14, 1891.

John W. Hayes, Esq., General Secretary Knights of Labor, Broad street, Philadelphia, U. S. A.

Dear Sir and Brother: The Knights of Labor of South Africa send you fraternal greeting, and trust that it will not be taken amiss if they seek better acquaintance with the leaders of that magnificent body of co-workers in a common cause, whose organization and achievements have justly earned the admiration of the working classes throughout the world.

Our organization is of but recent growth, but has long since passed the experimental stage, and is destined to become a great and powerful body for good.

The causes that led to our founding the order are identical with those that have lead to the formation of simliar organizations in America and Europe.

The insolence and oppression of organized capital, the arrogance and greed of monopoly, the indifference of a corrupt government to the urgent needs of the people, these are the causes to which the K. of L. of S. A. owe their existence.

The few square miles on which the place stands from which this is written is beyond doubt the richest spot in mineral wealth on the face of the globe. Yet to-day there is hardly another place on this fair earth in which there is so much misery and suffering as there is in the Diamond City.

Before the advent of the monopolist this place was prosperous, and the people happy and contented.

There was plenty of work and good wages exploiting the diamond mines.

But with the advent of the Rothschilds and Rhodes gang of capitalists this ceased.

The mines were acquired by one huge corporation, and the usual result followed.

Two mines were closed down, and large numbers of men were discharged in order to limit the output of diamonds and enhance the price. Not alone this, but the chairman of the company (Rhodes) succeeded in being made prime minister, and the government of the Cape Cod colony is virtually run by the DeBeers Consolidated mines.

As a consequence the powers of government are used, or rather misused, in flagrant violation of law to prevent the opening of newly-discovered mines.

Can you therefore wonder that an organization like ours was born?

We have an uphill fight, but we have a great and just cause to fight for and that gives us courage. We are unfortunately very poor, but increasing very rapidly, and that gives us hope that we shall win in the end. We should feel greatly obliged to you if you could send us such portion of your ritual, constitution, rules and by-laws, as you may deem advisable. We would also esteem it a favor if you would send us the Journal of the Knights of Labor. We will remit the amount of the subscription as soon as we learn what it is.

Trusting to hear soon from you, with best wishes and regards to yourself and your noble chief, Grand Master Powderly, believe me, dear sir and brother,

Fraternally yours,
W. L. BARTON,
Grand Master of the Knights of Labor of South Africa.

The Reception To-Night.

There is every promise of a good attendance at Memorial hall this evening, notwithstanding the inclement weather. The program is as follows:

Meeting called to order by W. D. Hudson, of Napoleon, M. W. of D. A. 72.

Address of welcome to delegates, Mayor V. J. Emmick.

Response, General Master Workman, T. V. Powderly.

Brief addresses on the work of the order, A. W. Wright, member of the general executive board, and editor of the Journal of the Knights of Labor; Hugh Cavanaugh, general worthy foreman, Cincinnati, O.

Notes.

"Uncle Dick" Trevellick, of Detroit, is here as an ex-delegate. Uncle Dick grows younger every year.

Very general regret is felt and expressed that Mrs. Powderly was not able to accompany her distinguished husband to Toledo.

Ohio has a large representation in the convention, and these delegates will hold several meetings pertaining to Ohio affairs before they leave the city.

Among the visiting ex-delegates to the convention is Miss Mary Burke, now a member of Joan of Arc assembly of this city, and living in Findlay. Miss Burke represented Bellaire (O.) district in the Atlanta convention.

The school system of D. A. 49 will be established in D. A. 72 on Wednesday and Thursday evenings by Bros. Milton George and Tom Maguire. All knights of the city and visiting knights invited to be present.

There will be a large attendance at the knights' ball in Pythian castle to-morrow evening, and the very jolliest time is anticipated, not only by the visiting delegates and the local knights, but by their friends of Toledo, who will show their interest by attending.

The reception in Memorial hall to-night and the dance in Pythian castle to-morrow night are open to all the public. On Thursday and Friday nights the knights of the assemblies in D. A. 72 and the delegates only will be admitted to Walbridge hall. After that Walbridge hall will be open in the evenings to every one who would like to meet the knights and hear them talk.

WOOD COUNTY GETS ANOTHER.

A representative of J. W. Greene & Co. was seen this morning returning from Weston, O., where he had secured an order from Hon. G. B. Spencer, M. D., of that town, for one of the celebrated Vose & Sons pianos, as a present to his daughter. Miss Spencer possesses a musical education of a high order, that enables her to render critical judgment upon the comparative merits of musical instruments, and the "Vose" was her selection as the one above all others having the most superior qualities.

PENNY DEAD.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 10.—James Penny, treasurer of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers and one of its founders, died yesterday of blood poisoning. The deceased was 63 years of age and leaves a family.

SUIT ON A NOTE.

New York, Nov. 10.—The Twelfth ward bank has obtained an attachment against the property of the Texas Siftings Publishing company for $1,000 due on a protested note. Counsel for the bank said last night that the bank loaned the publishing company $3,500. All but $1,000 of it was paid.

SALE OF THE WABASH.

Judges Gresham and Jackson Hearing the Case.

Motions to Confirm and Set Aside Masters' Report Being Argued in the United States Court—Amount Involved $339,000.

An interesting case is on hearing before Judges Jackson and Gresham in the United States district court to-day. Counsel this forenoon argued motions for the confirmation and also for the setting aside of the report of Willford Wilson of Springfield, Ill., in the Wabash-Compton case. Some time since the supreme court of Ohio rendered a judgment in favor of James Compton, a large stockholder, for $339,000 in the sale of the Wabash, made about a year ago. The sale was made subject to any rights that might afterwards be determined in favor of Compton.

An interesting question arises out of the fact that holders of the same class of bonds as that upon which Compton brought his suit, subsequent to the bringing of said suit, brought action in the federal courts and both there and in the United States supreme court, where the case was taken later, a decision adverse to the lien of the so-called equipment bonds was rendered. The supreme court of Ohio, however, claiming priority of jurisdiction, decided in favor of the validity of the bonds and made them a lien on that part of the Wabash Railroad company located in Ohio.

The master's report, which is a very lengthy document, is entirely in favor of Compton's claim.

There are, as stated, two motions, one to set aside and one to confirm, and as the arguments begin to-day it will take considerable time before a decision can be rendered.

The counsel for the Wabash are John J. Milburn, of New York, and Doyle & Sons, of Toledo. For Compton, Mr. Crawford, the famous railroad lawyer of Chicago, and Rush Taggart, of New York.

SAD CASE.

A woman named Mrs. Eugene Ford and her two children are in charge of the matron at the police station for the reason that they are destitute and have no place to go. Their case is another of a deserted family and is particularly sad. The woman, who is young and very nice appearing, states that she came here from Grand Rapids, Mich., some time ago with her husband, who is a butcher. About two weeks ago he left the family, stating that he was going to Detroit to obtain work if possible. Since that time she has heard nothing from him and she has no money to support herself and children.

Last Friday they were evicted from the house where they were staying and turned out on the street. She then applied to the infirmary and the chief of police for aid. The infirmary offered to send her on her way to Grand Rapids, but she is not anxious to go as she has no home there any more than she has in this city. In consequence she has been staying at the police station. The woman is anxious to work and seems willing to do almost anything to support herself and children. The police are making an effort to find her husband.

SQUARE TOE
SHOES
ARE CONSIDERED
FASHIONABLE.

The Chief Reason:

It is the ambition of every lady nowadays to be the possessor of a narrow foot regardless of its length.

The square toe shoe imparts that slender, graceful, narrow effect to ones foot, which the opera toe never can.

WITH CORSETS

You shape the contour of the waist.
Why can't you shape the foot?
Wear long shoes—long and narrow—then you'll have an admirable foot.
We've supplied you with and almost endless variety of squaretoed shoes.

If the gas trustees would tap the local senatorial situation there would be gas enough for all the factories in Toledo for a year to come.

Chairman Hahn of the republican committee is trying to make the people believe he elected McKinley, when everybody knows the eastern barrel did it.

The Blade says Representative-elect Flickinger refused to permit a Blade man to interview him. Mr. Flickinger gives daily evidence of his growing good sense in politics.

They are still hunting around the state state for the people's party. Brother Seitz knows it is somewhere, and Chairman Barnes is determined to find it if it takes all winter.

Speaking of the election victory for the high-taxers in Pennsylvania and Ohio; it is very evident that monopolists protected by the government for a quarter of a century are equal to any political emergency.

There is one institution the new administration had better let alone—the soldiers' and sailors' orphans' home at Xenia. Gen. Young is the best superintendent the institution ever had and Mrs. Young is a model matron.

There is little doubt about the senatorial preferences of the hurrah republicans of Toledo: they are all for Foraker. The real solid business pulse of the city beats for Sherman. Which is the better for the country in the long run?

The Hoosiers are not disturbed about their eastern border, and Ohio isn't covetous enough to insist upon half a dozen counties coming over to Buckeyedom, even if they would help make our state democratic. There is peace on the border.

Thirty thousand dollars democratic money, says Mr. Fassett, "slumped" votes enough to defeat me. It took more republican money than that to down Campbell in Ohio, but no one charges that it was used buying democrats to disfranchise themselves.

If Murat Halstead is the inspiring genius of the Commercial-Gazette's attack on Senator Sherman, it is not at all surprising that the paper is crusading against the veteran statesman of Mansfield. A man who wanted Lincoln's brains butted out is capable of attacking any man in his own party.

Just one more little pointer for some of the swells of Foraker politics in Toledo: don't jump on Collector Waldorf too hard. He has been an insistent and consistent political fighter in northwestern Ohio many years. He was a veteran in the ring before Senator Sherman made him collector, with headquarters in Toledo. He is a thoroughbred.

This campaign of senatorial harmony has progressed far enough for Dave Locke's ghost of hatred of John Sherman to intimate that a number of republican representatives in this part of Ohio are "conscienceless liars." This is a rather rough quotation for this honey Bee of peace to reprint, but the people want the unbiased news of the prize fight and the Bee must print what the people want to read.

The tariff law works some strange injustices and inconsistencies. The wrecks of American ships in the Samoan harbor, the result of the never-to-be-forgotten hurricane at Apia, were given to the Samoans (after the safes and valuables had been raised by the navy department). The Samoans had no appliances with which to lift the wreckage, and a San Francisco firm agreed to undertake the work upon contract that the recovered wrecks were to be sold in San Francisco and the proceeds divided between the wreckers and the Samoans. Now the collector of customs holds that the wreckers must pay duty and the treasury department sustains the decision. The action of the gift made them Samoan property. Beautiful law. King Maletao will beg to be excused from receiving any more presents from Uncle Sam.

This is what the Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, the London evangelist, gives us to think about:

"Americans will have to awaken from the dreamy optimism into which their privileges and wealth have betrayed them and face the great city problem as seriously and sadly as we have ourselves in England."

He says he is surprised to find the same, only in some degrees worse, condition of poverty and vice in New York and Boston that he has seen in London and Liverpool. We have blinded ourselves with the thought that a free government contained in itself, a panacea for all ills. Rev. Hughes observation is to the effect that the drink habit is the bottom layer for poverty and vice. It often takes an outsider to notice for us the things we are so accustomed to we forget their significance, or seeing, refuse to believe and consider.

In the North American Review of last month was a paper by John Flavel Mines, which related how he had been cured permanently of drunkenness by the Keeley remedy. He was jubilant over the victory and everybody rejoiced with him, so was everybody saddened by the account of his death Friday last in the Blackwell's island workhouse hospital from a drunken debauch. He had not tasted drink for over six months until the fatal day. And this proves that once cured is not always cured. The discoverer of the panacea has said that he himself needed all a man's faith and will power to help him restore a victim of alcoholism. It still remains that a man must be his own master and there is no safety in over-indulgence, no sure panacea for a fixed habit of drunkenness, except a man also determine to help himself.

The most favorable field for news romancing is found in the foreign service of the press associations. The correspondents discuss state papers as glibly as a student on dress parade examination, and diplomacy is brushed aside in London, Berlin, Paris and St. Petersburg, whenever these cultured pencil shovers want chapters of startling news for their American readers. A probable war between Russia and Turkey is no more difficult for these romancers to arrange than is a personal interview with Queen Vic; and for divertisement they open Bismarck's private desk and cull a few choice bits of secrecy that make the young kaiser howl. Occasionally these gentlemen of the quill invade the vatican and twist the Pope's toe, and it all goes. A very intelligent impression prevails that much of the stuff labeled copyright, emanates from a musty attic up a rickety back stairs in lower New York, but much does come across the pond at cable rates. One batch is as good as the other, and neither is reliable enough for instruction or for basing business calculations.

Mr. Fassett says in so many words that the reason he was defeated was because democratic money hired republican voters to stay away from the polls. New York state must have a bad lot of republican voters. The Buffalo News, republican, remarks, that to insinuate that republicans were bought by the wholesale is a gratuitous insult to them; that—

"The primary cause was that they didn't have the interest to go to the polls for a candidate dictated by a boss, no matter how notable his qualifications. That is the one true explanation."

The Lockport Union, published in one of the affected districts, assures the accusers that "Flower's money did make votes in the northern counties, but it was money given for many years in aid of churches, school-houses and hospitals. It is conceded that his benefactions have been large and continued when there was no thought of politics in it. The supposition is that Mr. Flower, like Mr. McKinley, was elected because the most votes were cast for him. It is a condition and not a thory that confronts the defeated.

WELCOME TO TOLEDO.

For the first time since the organization of the order of the Knights of Labor its highest legislative body is convened in Toledo. On another page of this issue will be found the declaration of principles upon which and for which the organization works. Of the twenty-two planks constituting this platform there are a number which make demands which we do not believe it would be for the good of the people should be enacted into law, and upon which therefore we might take issue. But it is plain that these demands have been formulated and are advocated with the belief that they are for the general good.

No dmand is made by this organization for legislation in the interests of a class. The "greatest good to the greatest number," which they claim to seek, is doubtless what they are working for. That is in itself in the highest degree commendable.

It is further seen that all the aims of the organization are sought to be obtained either by legislation, state and national, by arbitration or by co-operation. This stamps the organization as conservative as to methods, however radical are the changes it advocates. These methods are within the reach and within the rights of all American citizens. An organization that follow these methods commends itself to all true citizens, and antagonizes no fair-minded man.

We welcome to our city the representatives of the Knights of Labor who have been sent here to legislate for the order, and in the interests of the toilers and producers of this and other countries. We give them our hearty best wishes that their deliberations may be fruitful in good results for those in whose name and in whose behalf they have assembled.

FREE TRADE ENLARGES TRADE.

The state department issues official statement concerning the effect of the Spanish reciprocity treatment, showing a substantial increase of shipments made by the Ward line of steamers from New York to Havana. And that the company has been obliged to charter three extra steamers to carry the additional amount of merchandise. And this proves that free trade means increased trade; to prohibit a country's goods is not to invite them to buy goods of you but to send them straight to another market. It also proves that unrestricted trade would mean a rehabilitated American merchant marine in place of American money in ships sailing under the English flag.

If reciprocity (which is free trade with conditions) shall illustrate to those so prejudiced they will not see otherwise, these fundamental facts, then Secretary Blaine in attempting to save his party from the blighting effects of the McKinley bill, has done his party, and, in a roundabout, expensive way, the country, a lasting benefit. He has driven an entering wedge. So far as reciprocity opens the markets for our surplus, (which Mr. Blaine said the whole McKinley bill without his addendum would never do) it is a practical illustration of what democrats have insisted would result if taxation in the name of protection were lifted from articles of commerce.

BLAINE'S LITTLE WAR CRY.

When every little flutter of excitement causes a "war-cry" to go forth, it is well to consider what is behind the cry. There is jingo bluster, which may be harmless amusement, but which causes the country to appear ridiculous and petty for its size, strength, influence and commanding position among the nations of the earth. Our boyish chip-on-the-shoulder politics gets to be regarded for what it is worth and for just what it means. Then there are always in every country, classes whose self-greed is greater than their love of country, justice and humanity. Manufacturers of arms, dealers in ammunition, contractors for uniforms, provisions and supplies—there are big chances for money getters in war times. Men in the United States are today reveling in the good things that wealth brings to them, directly because they were able to palm off shoddy blankets, inferior and damaged food, and doctored horses for the soldiers' use, at prices paid for good goods. You can always depend upon these classes to help swell the "war-cry" on the least provocation.

The state department has not dealt in a dignified manner with the Chilians in the recent trouble. A war cry for election influence was instigated; war upon a little struggling republic with less population than the state of Pennsylvania, and this in advance of investigation to learn the truth in the matter and in the face of all the kind words spoken and written at the Pan congress—how good Mr. Blaine was to be a kind of grandmother to all the small republics of South America, settling their difficulties for them if they got into a back-yard squabble, and all that. Uncle Sam is getting old enough to give over this game-cock sort of fashion of meeting international complications. The government has declared for arbitration and a peaceable settlement of differences; now let it cease, apparently, to rejoice at every war prospect in either hemisphere.

Dr. Major, of Ridgewood, Illinois, has sued Dr. Leslie Keeley of gold-cure-for-drunkenness fame for $10,000 damages for advertising him as a restored victim. Dr. Major sent to Dr. Dwight for the remedy and directions, desiring to test it, as he had opportunity in his practice. Presently he saw his name in a neat circular as one of the cured. Being a strictly temperate man he is naturally incensed at being advertised over the country as a reformed drunkard and demands redress. These institute professors would better go a little slow. Such methods bring discredit even to a good cause.

A poet in the current number of Harper's Weekly has the bulge, so to speak, on the rest of the rhymsters. He has found out the color of the garments of the wind. He sings:

The twilight is full of sadness,
And the wind in its coat of gray
Skulks like a wolf thro' the shadows,
And will not be scared away.

We all know you can shut out the wind by stuffing an old hat in a broken pane, but that you cannot "scare it away" as a rule, is pretty well understood. But about the twilight "coat of gray" that's news.

Mr. Fassett of New York telegraphed to the Washington Post man, "Confidentially, the outlook is exceedingly flattering." The Post man published it, "confidentially" and all, and now makes humble apology to the much-chagrined Mr. Fassett, who has lost somewhat of his "confidence."

New York's Dox Quixote editor rises to the occasion. He warns the democrats that "the crime against the people" of insisting that the legislature of the state is democratic "will not be peacefully submitted to." The Col. marshals his army and rides to the front as usual.

Chicago is to have "independent but not neutral" papers galore. The new "Press" is of that persuasion, and the Mail, cut loose from partnership with the Times and with Joseph R. Dunlap for editor joins the ranks.

Ingalls puts out his head long enough to remark that the result of the election in Iowa, New York and Massachusetts doesn't signify. Mr. Ingalls knows what it means when the Kansans vote.

It was Boston which elected Gov. Russell. All honor to the old university town, the Athens of America, with its "Cradle of Liberty," Bunker Hill monument and its patriotic history.

If Mr. Quay is "vindicated" by the recent election in Pennsylvania will he still stand true to his newly-attached friend, President Harrison? That's a question.

America's Greatness in the Plain People.

America's greatness depends upon the masses of the population, the plain people, as Mr. Lincoln called them, the workingmen, getting such fair wages as to render it possible for them to maintain their manly independence; to live in clean, comfortable homes; to clothe themselves, their wives and children comfortably and respectably; to send their children to school, and to put something by to the end that they may, if necessary, be able to strike if their employer insists upon them taking the wages which the "cream of Europe" gladly take, or suffer to be locked out. There are some reasons to believe that Mr. Carnegie's high estimate of the character of European immigration is influenced by purely personal considerations.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The Times' Forecast.

The people seem to have settled one of the national tickets for 1892 with such emphasis that none can get any sort of a foothold to organize opposition. It is—

President—Grover Cleveland, New York.
Vice-President—Horace Boies, Iowa.

The republicans did not so clearly forecast their ticket by the late elections; but they have made Gov. McKinley one of the pickles next the wind; and he is now the most promising of all the candidates on that side, unless Blaine shall gather up sufficiently to take the field.—Philadelphia Times.

The Hard-Worked Tribune.

The Chicago Tribune is engaged in an effort to prove that McKinley's election in Ohio was not an indorsement of high protection. It is not a difficult task, or would not be if the Tribune, at the same time, were not trying prove that the democratic victory in Iowa was, in no degree whatever, due to tariff agitation. There is no newspaper in this country which has a harder time all the year round than the Chicago Tribune.—St. Louis Republic.

Good Advice for Conger.

If Mr. A. L. Conger, of Ohio, was as successful in getting votes as he is in getting himself interviewed, his town of Akron would not have been the only one in Ohio to show a large republican loss. Reducing wages and making an ostentatious display of wealth while preaching protection do not go well together. It would be more becoming for Mr. Conger to take a back seat for a while.—Philadelphia Press.

Uncle Jerry Forgets.

That eminent statesman and rain-producer, Uncle Jerry Rusk, advocates the placing of a duty on hides as a punishment for the Massachusetts shoemakers because they voted for Gov. Russell on Tuesday. The Wisconsin thunderer forgets that the power of placing duties on anything was taken away from his party in November, 1890, by an indignant people.—Providence Journal.

Humorous Reading.

Secretary Balfour is quoted as saying that he gets all the amusement he wishes out of the comments of the American newspapers on the situation in England. We can return the compliment, as the advice of the English press upon American affairs is clearly entitled to come under the head of humorous reading matter.—Indianapolis News.

The Fat-Fried Must Get Even.

Five hundred men employed in a Pittsburg iron industry were compelled to submit to a cut in their wages the day following the Ohio election. This is not in accordance with the promises of the McKinley bill, but McKinley victories come high and the expense must be met in some way.—Kansas City Star.

Good Business Talk.

Let every man constitute himself a committee of one to shut off all senseless forebodings as to the business and financial outlook, and put down all mischievous little-tattle that tends to unsettle confidence. The autumn skies were never brighter and business never stood on a firmer foundation.—Boston Globe.

Is Cut-Throat the Game?

The action of McKinley in demanding a hand in the little game of political euchre which Blaine and Harrison were having all to themselves converts it into that three-cornered sport commonly known as cut-throat.—Chicago Times.

MENTIONED ON THE STREETS.

That Senator McConica has two pledges out on the senatorial question.

That Toledo has not had an injunction in the street railway fight for more than a week.

That rolling mill employees will not come over the river to help Alderman Potter to a re-election.

That Street Commissioner Bower wants to be re-elected and expects no opposition in the convention.

That Judge-elect Kelly will take his seat on the common pleas bench as soon as official figures are announced.

That thus far there has been no difficulty experienced by the street railroad companies by the placing of double trolley wires.

That the Foraker managers in Lucas county will find that the wily James M. Brown and Collector Waldorf are more than a match for them.

That the people's party failed to reach the proportions in Lucas county which the local candidates expected. Seitz had to be content with 160 votes.

That John E. Gunckel can tell more fairy tales on fish than any man in the universe. He turns in a truthful story at times to keep up his reputation.

That it is Aldermen Potter, Macomber, Morgan, Everett and Graham who retire from the board in the spring, being from the odd numbered wards. It is understood all are candidates for re-election.

That motor-men and conductors would rather fight half an hour than turn back to a switch to let one of the cars pass. But this is supposed to be brotherly love.

That out of 15,000 votes cast at the election in Toledo last week, only a fraction over 4,000 expressed their opinion on the question of the issue of bonds for park purposes.

That Sergeant-at-arm Dan O'Sullivan, of the council, is the Fred Blankner of Toledo. The councils change, but Dan goes on forever. All on account of his good looks and winning ways.

That Representative Griffin wants the republicans of Lucas county to send him a postal card with their preference for United States senator. He promises to observe the wishes of the majority.

That the democrats whose terms expire in the council board next spring are Messrs. Pheatt, Coleman, Walker and Ray. The republicans who retire are Messrs. Hassenzahl, Lee, Morganthaler, Caldwell and Albrecht.

That Sam Tanner, deputy police clerk, announces himself as being "dead in it to stay" for the nomination to succeed his chief, M. C. Fogarty. The trio thus far laboring for the office are Fogarty, Weier and Tanner.

MILLS FAR IN THE LEAD.

Many Congressmen Who Are in Favor of the Texan.

Must Cast Their First Votes for Favorite Sons.

Springer Making a Losing Campaign by Trying to Draw Lines Between the North and South —Situation Reviewed.

Washington, Nov. 10.—(Special)—The speakership campaign may now be considered formally opened. It is true that Mr. Mills is the only candidate at present in the city, but the other candidates are not idle. Tom Johnson, of Ohio, and Mr. Mutchler, of Pennsylvania, are both here. Both are outspoken supporters of Mills, and are here to assist him in the contest.

Mr. Springer is in New York. Mr. Crisp is at his home in Georgia. Mr. Bynum has just returned to Indiana, and Mr. McMillin's whereabouts are not known at the present time.

There are about 15 congressmen now in town, about two-thirds of whom are democrats. It is the impression of all, democrats and republicans, that Mills will practically have a walkover for the speakership.

There is no longer much doubt that he will have the solid vote of New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania to start in with. The Wisconsin and Minnesota vote has been pledged to him for more than a year.

The indications are that Michigan will be for him solidly, and that the votes of other state delegations, now more or less involved in the candidacy of local men, will be cast for him at the proper time.

This candidacy of local men is becoming very tiresome to the average congressman. Said a member of the next house to your correspondent to-day: "I am getting very sick of this favorite-son business myself. The member of the delegation from my state who is a candidate announced himself without consulting the members of the delegation. On the contrary, he coolly informed the press and public that the delegation would be solid in his support.

"Now, for local reasons, I suppose I will be compelled to vote for him at least once, although I do not feel like doing so. I am for Mills. I know that Mills will be elected. I understand the conditions under which the next house will be organized. They will not be ts they have been heretofore. Because of the overwhelming democratic majority the speaker will naturally have to reward his friends, and as there are few good places to give and a great many seeking them, the speaker, if he is human, will have to look out for his friends first.

"Now, I do not feel like losing my chances of committee preferment by wasting my vote on the favorite son of my state, who I know in my own heart has not the least chance of being elected. In other words, I will candidly say to you that I am anxious to go in with the winner, but local pride compels me to throw away my vote on a member from my state who has no chance whatsoever of winning.

"I think the members of the house ought to organize to destroy this favorite-son business. It is becoming a nuisance. There never were but two men who stood a chance of being speaker, and those were Mills and Crisp.

"Bynum, Springer, McMillin and Hatch are in the race for advertising purposes. All of them are good men. I like them all personally, and either of them would make a good speaker, but everybody who knows anything about the situation of affairs is aware that the fight from the first has been between Mills and Crisp.

"I do not see any reason why the members of a delegation should join in the glorification of one of their members at the expense of the others; yet it seems that they are willing to do so because, probably, of good nature on the part of some and timidity on the part of others.

"If Mr. Mills is nominated on the first ballot, as now seems probable, a good many men who are his friends and with whom he is friendly will be left in the lurch.

"Now, I am one of these, and I am seriously thinking of breaking away from my local environment and supporting the man whom I know will be elected, especially as he is my choice. Mills is a very human man, and it is but natural that he should give the fancy places on the committees to those who are with him from the start."

There is a good deal of talk of this kind going on here at the present time; in fact, every congressman who comes to Washington tied down by the favorite-son humbug is talking that way.

Mr. Springer is making an extremely active canvass. He is now in New York. His friends in Illinois are sending letters daily to members urging them to vote for him on the ground that he is a northern man, and that it would be bad politics to elect a southern man speaker.

The documents sent out by Mr. Springer's friends pretend that Springer's election is necessary in order to avoid sectionalism and sectional animosities, yet Springer seems to be seeking the place on that ground alone, for the fact that he is from a particular section is the only argument of any weight that is made in his behalf by his friends.

Even candidates for the speakership have received these documents from Springer's friends, and it can be well understood that they have not had a pleasant tendency.

There is no disguising the fact that considerable more than a majority of the Illinois democratic members of the next house are in favor of Mills for Speaker. He is their first choice, although some of them feel that, because of local sentiment, they ought to vote at least once for Springer.

And then the chances are that Mills will be nominated on the first ballot, and where will they be when the committees are appointed. They are well aware that Mills is friendly to them, that he would like to place them properly, but he will be compelled to give the best places to the men who worked to make him speaker.

It will be the same way with the Missouri men, Indiana men, the Tennessee men. This is very plain talk, it must be admitted, but this is the way the members from Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Tennessee are talking among themselves. It is the way in which many of them write confidentially to your correspondent and to other friends. It is a condition and not a theory that confronts them, although they know that Mills is the man for the place, and that he is going to get there.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Denver, Col., Nov. 10.—The Mansion livery stables on the corner of Eighteenth and Lawrence streets has been burned. Between 20 and 30 horses were burned, and four, and possibly a fifth person were burned to death. The upper part of the building was occupied by lodgers and there were numerous narrow escapes. Loss, $20,000; insurance, $10,000.

CHEAP POSTAGE IN ENGLAND.

London, Nov. 10.—The new postmaster general announces the opinion that there is no hope for the success of the movement for a universal penny postage between English speaking people, but he expects a substantial reduction in rates on newspapers, books and patterns.

THE ULSTER COUNTY BANK.

Kingston, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Bank Superintendent Preston has issued a report on the condition of the failed Ulster county savings institution. He states the assets at $2,108,547; liabilities, $2,474,465; deficiency, $365,918. He believes that the depositors will receive 85 per cent.

TO GO TO THE FAIR.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 10.—A proclamation was issued to-day by the governor calling on the citizens of the great commonwealth of Pennsylvania to join in making the display at the world's Columbian exposition of the state fully worthy of the commonwealth.

BURGLARS RAIDED.

London, Nov. 10.—The police to-day raided a house in the city road and captured ten burglars and an immense amount of stolen property. The occupants of the den made a hard fight before they surrendered and a number were injured.

FAILURE.

New York, Nov. 10.—Charles MacEvoy, manufacturer of glazed kid at No. 14 Warren street, made an assignment to-day without preferences.

THE AMERICAN ELECTIONS.

Viewed from an Intelligent Canadian Standpoint.

From the Montreal Witness.

The general result of the elections held on Tuesday in 10 or 11 of the states of the American union was so indecisive that neither party feels much encouraged, and it is not easy to estimate the probable effect upon the presidential contest next year.

In the most partisan states which have all along been unaffected by the issues which seem to be gradually breaking up the republican party, the respective majorities of either republicans or democrats are greater than at the last elections, which shows that the effect upon the presidential contest was kept clearly in view and had its full effect. That the reaction from the democratic sweep of last year was not greater, is therefore, discouraging to the republicans and calculated to render them extremely uneasy as to the result of next year's contest. They carried the state of Ohio by a good majority—about double that anticipated by the independent papers. But they are divided over the significance of this victory as to the policy to be adopted next year.

The extreme protectionists insist upon the bare facts that Mr. McKinley, the champion of high protection, redeemed the state of Ohio by boldly standing to his great protectionist gun, the McKinley act.

The reciprocitarians point out that even Mr. McKinley dwelt more upon the free list part of the act, the taking off of the duties on sugar, etc., and the reciprocity clauses, than upon even the wood and agricultural products duties, and that Gov. Campbell's most successful assaults were made upon the high tariff duties upon glass, tin, etc. Mr. Blaine, the leader of the reciprocitarians, had to be called in to the aid of McKinley toward the end of the campaign. They point out, too, that Gov. Campbell was weakened by the opposition of a section of his own party and by the free coinage silver plank which had been adopted by the democratic convention of Ohio.

If the republican party decide to carry on their presidential campaign on a policy framed with the idea that it was extreme protectionism that brought victory in Ohio and would most likely bring it in the nation next year they will surprise a good many people. The Ohio victory, has, according to the party press, made Mr. McKinley a possibility for the next republican nomination for president.

It is probable that the democratic tariff reformers would rejoice at the prospect of a square fight against protection, with Mr. McKinley at the head of the ticket. In such a case there can be no doubt who would be the candidate of the democrats, indeed, the whole independent press, as well as many democratic journals of the better sort, take it for granted that Mr. Cleveland will be the democratic candidate.

The result in New York state, they say, settled that. It is true that Mr. Hill was a prominent worker for Mr. Flower, but even at the Tammany hall meetings Mr. Cleveland was acclaimed as the next democratic nominee.

The rebuke administered Tammany by New York city, whose democratic majority was greatly reduced, and the remarkable strength developed by the democratic candidate in the counties indicate the nomination of Mr. Cleveland as the proper course.

The defeat brought, in part, upon Gov. Campbell in Ohio by the free coinage plank makes it clear that the next democratic candidate must be sound on the silver question, and Gov. Campbell's splendid campaign on straight tariff reform has done much to educate the people, not only of Ohio, but of the country.

In New York, Massachusetts and Iowa tariff reform was one of the most pronounced issues. The victory in Iowa has made Gov. Bois prominent and he may be selected for the nomination for the office of vice president.

The re-election of Gov. Russell in Massachusetts is significant, inasmuch as it indicates that the old republican leaders and their supporters have broken away definitely from their party and after voting twice for a democratic governor may be found voting with equal independence for a democratic candidate for president.

FIRE IN THE COAL PILES.

Thousands of Dollars' Worth of Fuel Destroyed.

Duluth Witnessing a Great Conflagration on Her Coal Wharves —Water Seems to Do Little Good.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 10.—The great coal pile on the Pioneer Fuel Co.'s dock is still on fire, although water has been poured into the burning mass at the rate of 1,800 gallons a minute since last Friday. Some sixty men are wheeling the coal away from the pile, so that the firemen can reach the hottest part of the blaze.

If the air reaches the smouldering fire the whole mass, containing thousands of tons of coal, it liable to be destroyed. Some of the largest elevators lie near the coal docks, but it is believed that they can be saved.

The Duluth fire department is working in relays of six hours each. Nothing further is known of the cause than that it is believed to be spontaneous combustion.

The full extent of the loss is not yet known, but it will doubtless reach into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Engine No. 2 and 2,000 feet of hose in charge of eight firemen were sent from Minneapolis this morning to relieve the overworked firemen here. They will probably be required a week.

WHITE CAPS SENTENCED.

Morristown, N. J., Nov. 10.—Gray Torrey, son of Herbert Gray Torrey, chief of the United States assay office, New York city, and Frank Moffett and his brother, sons of Clarkson B. Moffett, justice of the peace in Sterling, N. J., as well as the other young men found guilty of whitecapping Parson Dill, of the Sterling church, were sentenced this morning to pay a fine of $50 each and costs. Parson Dill generously asked the court to be lenient with the young men.

THE TOM GREENE ESTATE.

Bonham, Tex., Nov. 10.—Yesterday, in the county court, Sara Adore, of Washington, D. C., and Jane and Mary E. Murray, of Fairfax, Va., filed a petition for the partition of the famous Tom Greene estate, valued at $1,000,000. They name all the heirs in the petition. This suit reopens the whole case.

CHARGED WITH BURGLARY.

Tiffin, O., Nov. 10.—(Special)—Douglas Ball, jr., was arrested and taken to Fostoria for complicity in the burglary of the Mergenthaler residence in that city last Saturday. Ball is the son of a well-known and highly respected citizen of Tiffin and it is hoped may clear himself of the charge.

DIPHTHERIA EPIDEMIC.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

JOKES AND JOKERS.

The ways of English and Americans are still appalling to the more indolent and less cleanly southern nations, who have had for many decades large opportunities for studying these race peculiarities and yet have never ceased to wonder. When Mr. W. D. Howells was consul at Venice, an attempted burglary in the palace occupied by him gave occasion for the following suggestive incident:

In my account of this affair to the commissary of police, I said that the burglary occurred one morning about daylight, when I saw the head of the burglar peering above the window-sill, and his hand extended to prey upon my wardrobe.

"Excuse me, Signor Console," interrupted the commissary, "how could you see him?"

"Why, there was nothing in the world to prevent me. The window was open."

"The window was open!" gasped the commissary. "Do you mean that you sleep with your windows open?"

"Most certainly."

"Pardon," said the commissary, suspiciously, "do all Americans sleep with their windows open?"

"I may venture to say they all do in summer," I answered. "At least, it is the general custom."

Such a thing as this indulgence in fresh air seemed altogether foreign to the commissary's experience, and but for my official dignity I am sure I should have been effectually browbeaten by him. As it was, he threw himself back in his arm-chair and stared at me fixedly for some moments. Then he recovered himself with another "Pardon!" and turning to his clerk, said:

"Write down that, according to the American custom, they were sleeping with their windows open."

But I know that for all his politeness, he considered this habit a relic of the time when we Americans abode in wigwams.

THE SMOKER.

A Cigarette.

Tis only when I'm feeling bad,
And desperate I get,
That I disgrace myself and whiff
A nauseous cigarette.

A Cigar.

When I am trying to be a swell
And dollars plenty are,
Sometimes I fall from grace and smoke
A costly, vile cigar.

A Pipe.

But when at home I'm at my ease
And happiness is ripe,
I sit me down and revel in
The luxury of a pipe.

His Excuse.

Aubrey had serious objections to chopping wood. There are many boys like him, I suppose. When he was called upon for the work he always found plenty of excuses, and the family had learned all the old ones so thoroughly that he had sometimes to rack his brains for a new supply.

"Aubrey," said his mother one day, "go cut a few pieces of wood. There are plenty of large pieces to cut. Your lame foot is well, and you haven't had a toothache since last week. You needn't change your shoes, for you've got on old ones. And the axe is behind the cellar door. I saw it there five minutes ago."

"Now, mother," said Aubrey, in an injured tone, "have you looked at that axe? How do you suppose I can cut wood with an axe that has an edge like the coast line of North America?"

The Washerwoman's Revenge.

Mr. De Sharp (anxiously)—I inadvertently sent my cuff-buttons to the wash last week. Did you find them?

Washerwoman—Sure, Oi saw a couple in th' tub, but I have no time to be fishin' around fur brass cuff-buttons, an' Oi t'rew thim away.

Mr. De Sharp (in horrified accents)—Threw them away! Those buttons were pure gold.

Washerwoman—Moy! moy! That's too bad. Oi niver thought a young man wot was always beatin' down a poor washerwoman's prices cud afford to wear goold.—New York Weekly.

She Didn't Know.

Little Girl (looking over advertising page)—Mamma, why do all these boarding houses object to children?

Fond Mamma—I'm sure I don't know. Go see what the baby is yelling about, and tell Johnny to stop throwing things at people in the street, and make George and Kate stop fighting and tell Dick if he doesn't stop banging that Chinese gong so hard I'll take it away from him.—Street & Smith's Good News.

The other evening about 6 o'clock a young man sat in a crowded up-bound car apparently asleep. The conductor politely tapped him on the shoulder and said:

"No sleepin' in this car, young man."

"I'm not asleep," was the reply.

"Well, you had your eyes shut."

"That's because I don't like to see women stand in a street car," was the rejoinder.—Buffalo Courier.

NERVOUS AND SICK HEADACHE.

How to Perfectly Cure Them.

All forms of headache are of a nervous character, and are caused by a weakness, irritation or disease of nerves of the head, and to cure such cases it is absolutely necessary to use DR. GREENE'S NERVURA. Many persons who suffer from headache have, by repeated failure to find relief, despaired of cure. To such we would say, by all means secure a bottle of this wonderful remedy, and watch its marvelous effect. It is the most perfect cure known for headache.

"For over 20 years my life was made miserable by frequent and terrible headaches. At times they were so severe I feared I would go insane.

No one could suffer worse than I did. I bought DR. GREENE'S NERVURA, and the very first bottle stopped the headaches, and I never had any trouble with my head since that time. After suffering for 20 years I was cured by DR. GREENE'S NERVURA.

What's the world, rich man?—No doubt very pleasant;
But I've really no time for amusement at present.

What's the world, poor man?—In grinding employment.
The missing of all that gives life its enjoyment.

What's the world, soldier?—A race hardly run,
Where the prizes by favor, not merit, are won.

What's the world, parson?—A school of preferment,
Where the dean lies in wait for the bishop's interment.

What's the world, doctor?—A sphere where I thrive
On the fees that fools give me to keep them alive.

What's the world, lawyer?—A court of contention,
Of knavery, folly, and things we don't mention.

What's the world, author?—A mask, where my brain
Plays Abel to every critical Cain.

What's the world, critic?—A mill, where I break
Many hopes on my wheel for bread-and-cheeses' sake.

What's the world, mummer?—A stage, where my vanity
Basks in the "bravos" of gushing humanity.

What's the world, amateur?—Where the swell throng
Give me meals in exchange for my antics and song.

What's the world, mothers?—A sorry campaign,
With a limited income, and daughters all plain.

What's the world, spinster?—Where a husband I'd buy;
But I find the demand much exceeds the supply.

What's the world, M. P.?—A plane whence to rise
To the platform of power on the ladder of lies.

What's the world, Paddy?—Beshrew, 'tis a stool
Of repentance for those who coquet with home rule.

What's the world, Jonathan?—Guess, where my dollars
Can take the starch out of the most stuck-up collars.

What's the world, bobby?—Where, nightly, I learn
How nearly to beasts men and women can turn.

What's the world, wise man?—(On you no aspersion,
Dear reader) There's not one to give me his version.

The whole affair of the broken beer mug came back to his majesty's recollection, and he immediately ordered a magnificent beer glass, with a rich silver lid, bearing the imperial arms and inscribed: "To Herr Stuwe, from his friend and comrade Lieutenant Wilhelm." Herr Stuwe now holds a government post at Chemnitz.

THE CHEROKEE OUTLET,

Chief Mayes Delivers His Annual Address.

Many Prominent Men Gathered to Hear the Affairs of the Nation Discussed at Length.

Tahlequh, I. T., Nov. 10.—Since the Cherokee National Council convened nothing has been done beyond counting the votes of the several districts for chief and assistant. As telegraphed, Joel B. Mayes, the Downing candidate, was declared elected, and Henry Chambers, national candidate, was elected assistant. The council then notified the Chief that they were ready for business. Upon receiving the notice, Chief Mayes appeared and delivered his annual message, which was lengthy, consuming nearly three hours' time. A large audience greeted the chief, and many distinguished men from the adjoining states listened very attentively to the document.

In his message, Chief Mayes touched upon few questions of general importance. The intruder matter was mentioned, the chief dwelling upon it for some time, concluding by asking that the council take steps to bring about, if possible, some final settlement of the matter. He pointed out the many wrongs that were being perpetrated by this class of people and urged the council to take immediate action and to appeal to the United States for assistance in removing these trespassers.

To the Cherokee Outlet question the chief devoted nearly an hour, an audience of 5,000 people surrounding the speaker. Most of his remarks were devoted to a citing of the grounds upon which the Cherokees claim absolute patented ownership of the outlet. In conclusion, he said:

We have had the peaceable and undisputed possession of the so-called "Outlet" for a period of over half a century. Our title to it, which is by patent in fee simple, now a matter of record in the general land office at Washington, D. C., and which original document remains among the archives of the Cherokee nation with the personal signature of Martin Van Buren, president of the United States, thereto attached, and it was never disputed by any department of the government from the days of Andrew Jackson down to the present administration when, in order to buy it, our tenants were forcibly ejected, our finances thrown into confusion, our credit impaired, our institutions of learning closed, and our children deprived of the means of education, and all for no other reason, that I can see, than that we were willing to part with that which is ours for less than its value. A proposition to buy the outlet will in all probability be submitted again to you during your present session. If such a proposition is entertained at any time it certainly must be done at a fair valuation of this property. I do not believe that the power exists anywhere to take these lands from the Cherokees without their consent, unless by an act of robbery. The Cherokees cannot afford to lose sight of the treaty stipulations with the United States government, which define the status and ownership to these lands.

If the sale is made to the United States it must be done through a revision of the treaty of 1866, by which the land may be conveyed to the government for other purposes than the settlement of friendly Indians, which contract for the sale to friendly Indians is thoroughly understood, and has been partly carried out. Then let our relations with the United States be more accurately defined, and let every right that belongs to the Cherokees be permanently secured. Let many objectionable and oppressive features of the treaty of 1866 that were forced upon the Cherokees at the close of the war be stricken from it as a condition of the sale.

THE CAUSE OF IRELAND.

Factional Fights Will Retard Her Progress.

If England's Iron Hand Is Ever Overpowered It Will Be When Irishmen Have No Differences.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 10.—M. V. Gannon, president of the Irish National League of America; P. Lyman, treasurer, and John P. Sutton, secretary, have issued a significant statement addressed to the friends of Ireland in America.

The document refers to the rival factions, inflamed with hate, arrayed against each other in Ireland, and says those who would be naturally looked to there for counsel, tending to peace and unity, are foremost in fermenting fratricidal strife, adding:

"It is patent to every thoughtful man that the contending parties are each too strong for one politically to destroy the other and force reunion down the throats of discomfited opponents.

"Union, however, between these factions is absolutely necessary to the success of the Irish cause, and it must be a union of head and heart, based on mutual concessions, even if every present aspirant to leadership has to be forced into retirement.

"It should be the resolve of the Irish in America that no parliamentary factions shall be permitted to bring upon our motherland a ruin more complete than England's tyrannical acts have ever been able to accomplish.

"We have faith in the sturdy nationality of the Irish people, and when we speak of the people we do so in an American sense, and beyond the artificialities of the lines of a mere British franchise.

"We believe in the manhood of Ireland, and to it we appeal to force these parliamentarians to stop their quarrels, or make way for other Irishmen to whom the interests of their country are of greater merit than personal ambition or personal animosities."

The address calls for more thorough organization and redoubling of efforts to make the Irish league of America a mighty engine for good, not only for Ireland, but for the Irish race all the world over. Entirely non-political in America, the league, the address says, will exercise a marked beneficial influence in Irish affairs, and its power to render financial assistance be far greater than can ever be derived from spasmodic collection tours by Irish representatives.

Its service to Ireland in the past has been incalculable, in spite of the many obstacles placed in its way, and now as an independent American organization it should not heed the clamor of interested parties, or stop by the wayside to quarrel with fellow-countrymen who may differ in opinion, but go steadily forward, endeavoring to bring order out of chaos, union out of disunion, and ultimate freedom for Ireland.

Branches should be at once organized, and state executives are urged to put the good work in motion with the least possible delay. It has been boasted by a British stateman, the address says, that a gun could not be fired in Europe without the consent of the English government, because, strong in her own splendid system of organization, England kept every European nation in a state of turmoil and disorganization through the medium of subsidized secret societies.

She is playing the same game in America to-day, says the address, which asks: "Can we possibly hope to overcome her powerful influence without organizing to counteract it?"

SMILING THROUGH GRIEF.

In Spite of the Worries Which All Women Have, They Appear Well and Happy—How to Make This Apparent Happiness Real.

"Yes," said an eminent physician recently, "I do not think I exaggerate when I say that one-half of the suffering and sickness which exists among women might and should be avoided.

"How? Listen and I will tell you. Pains and weakness and the little cares, which no man other than a physician suspects, frequently combine to make women more or less miserable. Yet they come up smiling nearly always, hiding beneath their seeming happiness an infinity of mental and physical torture. This is all wrong. Woman was born to brightness and happiness; she needs strength to resist many trials. Her body, her mind and all her faculties and functions must be put into a healthy condition or she cannot secure strength; and where nature fails she must be assisted. Here is where stimulants prove so valuable."

"Yes, I mean spirits, but not the spirits of the saloon; and while I recommend whiskey as the best and most useful of spirits, I am always most careful to impress upon my patients the necessity of obtaining it absolutely pure, as impure whiskey is worse than useless." It has been agreed by the leading scientists and physicians of the day that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is absolutely pure. The proper use of it will strengthen the nerves, blood and body. It is not a beverage, but is designed for medicinal use. It stimulates all the faculties of the body and mind, adds energy and strength and builds up waste tissue. It may be obtained from your druggist or grocer. In justice to yourself, see that you obtain the genuine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and be not be satisfied with any substitute which may be offered as just as good.

SPECIALIST
FOR ALL CHRONIC, PRIVATE & SURGICAL DISEASES
25 years' private practice and hospital experience in both Europe and America.
In order to properly care for his rapidly increasing practice throughout the United States, Dr. Kalkhoff has, at great expense, finally succeeded in associating with himself
A STAFF OF EUROPEAN DOCTORS!
These physicians, together with their principal, Dr. Kalkhoff, belong to The Association of European Medical and Surgical Specialists.
Every remedy and method of treatment used by this association was discovered by some Eminent European Specialist who has devoted his life to one class of diseases. EXTRAORDINARY CASES that will not yield to the skilled European treatment of Dr. Kalkhoff and his staff of specialists, is laid before the European Association until a cure is effected. This system gives every patient of Dr. Kalkhoff and his staff the advantages of the combined knowledge of the most skillful medical and surgical specialists of all the European countries.
THROAT, LUNG AND NASAL DISEASES, such as Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption, Catarrh, Deafness, &c., speedily cured by an original system of INHALATION with compressed medicated gases, for either home or office treatment. The worst cases of Catarrh cured by this method in from 6 weeks to 2 months. A DIET CHART of what to eat furnished each patient when necessary.
ALL CHRONIC AND DESPERATE DISEASES, such as Dyspepsia, Constipation, Piles, Fistula, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Headache, Fits, Sleeplessness, Brain Congestion, St. Vitus Dance, Nervous Exhaustion, Cancers, Tumors, Deformities, Skin Diseases, including Pimples, Freckles, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Eczema, and all Chronic Diseases of the Heart, Bowels, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder. Female Diseases cured without exposure.
PRIVATE AND SEXUAL DISEASES cured under a guarantee, and forfeit of $1,000 for failure. Victims of Youthful Indiscretions and excesses of later years. Seminal Weakness, Nervous and Physical Debility, Lost Manhood, Exhausted Vitality, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, Loss of Memory and Energy, Spermatorrhoea and Impotency speedily and permanently cured by our original and never-failing treatment.
Gonorrhoea, Syphilis, Gleet, Stricture, Hydrocele and Vericocele cured in the shortest possible time, without the use of mercury or hindrance from business. Cures guaranteed when others have failed. Low charges, and consultation sacredly confidential.
Office hours, 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Sundays, 9 a. m. to 12 m., and 3 to 4 p. m.
OUT OF TOWN PATIENTS treated with unfailing success through correspondence. One visit desirable but not necessary. Write to DR. KALKHOFF, TOLEDO, OHIO, for examination blanks, or call at his extensive offices, parlors and labratory, where he has a complete supply of manikins, electrical appliances, surgical instruments, apparatus for deformities, latest scientific devices for examining diseases; automatic hydraulic INHALATION machines and hundreds of other original medical and surgical appliances, which render these the most completely equipped doctor's offices in America. MOST PEOPLE Know only a comparatively few things thoroughly—all else is more or less uncertain.
Take your own case. What do you know about CARPETS, for instance? Are you competent to detect poor materials, or imperfect weaving, or unreliable colorings, or old-style patterns?
No.
Then will it not be wisdom on your part to make your purchases of CARPETS where all these points are taken care of in your interest, and where you are protected, not only from direct misrepresentation, but from the results of your own inexperience?
That seems plain enough.
Just two things we promise every customer. They are these:
That every salesman shall tell the whole truth about every piece of goods offered for sale; that anything which proves imperfect, through the appearance of any hidden defect subsequent to purchase, shall be made right.
The name of our firm stands behind these two guarantees.
Very likely you are thinking of purchasing one or more CARPETS shortly. If so, consider what we have said.

THEY "TOOK THE CAKE,"

Did Three Classes at St. John's M. E. Anniversary,

Held Last Evening—Instructive Address by Superintendent Davis and Happy Talk by Pastor Fish—Good Time Generally.

The eighteenth anniversary of St. John's M. E. Sunday school and the thirty-eighth of the formation of the society in Ames' chapel on Lagrange street, was appropriately celebrated last evening. The inclement weather had the effect of deterring many of the adults from attending, but the rain did not detain many of the little ones at home. The different classes were kept as close together as possible, and it was a beautiful sight to witness the members, with their teachers, arise at roll-call and respond with a verse from the Scriptures. After devotional exercises, the choir, composed of Mrs. L. S. Churchill, Miss Ida Swartz and Messrs. Churchill and Emerson, sang an anthem, and Secretary Webster called the roll.

The address of the evening was made by Mrs. M. R. Davis, the superintendent, and proved very interesting. The lady traced the growth of the Sunday school work from Robert Raikes to the present time, and although much had been done, still it was far short of what ought to have been accomplished. The school being the nursery from which the church grows, there was necessity to see to it that proper training was afforded.

Mrs. Davis paid an eloquent tribute to the memory of Mr. William St. John, now deceased, whose name the church bears, and to whose untiring labors much was due. Of the superintendents who have served only two retain a residence in Toledo, and only one still connected was present last night.

In closing the superintendent said: "The school has grown in spiritual strength from year to year. According to the secretary's report last year there were enrolled 334, with 275 as the average attendance. This year 412 are enrolled, average attendance 296. Last year $66 were contributed to missions, this year $75. Teachers, let me wish for the coming year the grandest in the history of the school—a year of work, a year of sheave-gathering, and then when the Book of Life is closed, the last great day has come and the heavens have been rolled back as a scroll, I would wish for you, teachers, that as the Sunday school armies pass in review, you may see in the ranks those dear ones for whose salvation you beloved in St. John's."

Following the address the primary department in charge of Mr. J. W. Skeldon kept the audience in good humor for 20 minutes with their songs and recitations. Among the little tots who sang and spoke were Eva Lyons, Cora Carnes, Constance Emmick, Hazel Eckhardt, Lulu Lyons, Mabel Crissman, Frankie Barron, Rowena Turner, Arthur Nicklet and Grace Callard.

As usual, these exercises were the feature of the evening's celebration. Miss Emma Heizelman gave a pleasing recitation, and Rev. Dr. Fish, the pastor, in a felicitous talk, presented the birthday cake to the three classes who had, by their regular attendance at church and school, won the same. The teachers, Miss Lizzie Hill, Mrs. G. Herman and Mr. M. R. Davis, were called to the chancel and "took the cake," as Mr. Fish put it. The cake was in the shape of a pyramid, and around it were 19 miniature candles, one for each year of the school's life and one to grow.

The organinst, Miss Flora Van Gorder, played a march, and preceded by the infant department, the thirty classes moved to the parlors below, which had been arranged for their accommodation, and surrounded by teachers and parents partook of ice cream and cake, which was not served sparingly, either. Music and song was indulged in while the refreshments were partaken of, and an hour of social converse closed one of the happiest celebrations in the school's history. The various committees labored diligently, and their reward came in the pleasure they afforded the large company.

This school stands out among the other schools of the city as the only one presided over by a woman. Mrs. Davis, the superintendent, is an indefatigable worker, and is ably assisted by a full corps of workers, who are ever ready and usually found in their place.

GAS TRUSTEES MEET.

Regular Grind At Last Night's Session.

A New Departure—No More Lines to Be Laid Unless Money is Paid In—Action on Applications for Gas.

Heretofore the board of gas trustees has furnished lines where one-half the estimated cost of construction was paid, but at the meeting last evening it was decided to build no more except in cases where the full amount was advanced.

It was decided to lay a line on Locust from Austin to Moore.

Mr. Chas. Russell of the Toledo Carriage Wood works appeared before the board to know if his firm could be guaranteed gas if they purchased a meter.

President Parsons said he was opposed to giving a guarantee to manufacturers on any condition. The matter was referred to the committee on prices.

The bill of the American Iron and Tube company for $15,100 was ordered paid in gas certificates, as per contract. Sundry claims amounting to $5,262 were also ordered paid.

Mr. Greene said he desired to say in the interests of the Adams street mission that the Northwestern, which has heretofore given gas free, now proposed the gas should be paid for. He did not know what the board could do, but he would like that some action be taken.

Mr. Brown moved that gas be furnished free until further orders upon the payment of the cost of connection.

President Parsons questioned the board's authority to give gas away. He thought some change should be made.

After some further discussion the motion was adopted.

A contract with Geo. L. Monroe for the sinking of wells in the gas field was ordered executed.

The committee on prices recommended that $100 advanced by the Harris Toy company be returned, as gas cannot be furnished. Adopted.

A petition for gas from the Miami Milling company was rejected.

The report of the manager relative to the amount of gas used by factories was referred to the committee on prices.

The manager also reported that reports to the contrary notwithstanding, the city mains were not connected with the lines of any other company.

The Toledo Window Glass company petitioned for gas from 3:30 p. m. to 2 o'clock a. m. The company refuses to pay meter rates. Gas will be furnished at meter rates if the company provides the meter.

R. W. Smith applied for the balance due him, $3,000.

Dr. Jones moved he be given $1,000 on account.

Mr. Brown moved to amend that he be paid in gas certificates.

Both motion and amendment were lost.

Mr. Brown moved that the Page Steel Wheel company be given gas at 8 cents meter measure for ovens and stoves on condition that the company provide the meter.

After some discussion the matter was referred to the committee on prices.

Bids for 20,000 feet of 4-inch pipe were read and the matter was referred.

Petitions for gas were read from residents as follows:

Irving, Horton 100 feet east, rejected.

Peck, Walnut to Locust, ordered laid.

St. Mary's street, Western 250 feet south, ordered laid.

Nebraska avenue, 20 feet west, rejected.

Floyd, Horton to Ashland avenue, rejected.

Mr. Brown moved that owing to the lateness of the season and the decrease in income, owing to the shutting off of the factories, that no further lines be laid except where the whole amount of the estimated cost be advanced. Carried, Dr. Jones voting no.

The city treasurer reported receipt of $1,200

FIGURES OF MAGNITUDE.

The Money Invested in Life Insurance—Facts Not Generally Known.

Mr. A. F. Campbell, who is the general agent of the Equitable Life Insurance society in this city, and therefore knows whereof he speaks, delivered an address at the last monthly reception at the Toledo Business college on the subject of life insurance. Some statistics brought out in this address were full of interest.

Mr. Campbell stated that the 30 companies reporting to the New York insurance department received from policy holders in the year 1890, $50,000,000 in premiums, and from interest $37,000,000. They paid to policy holders in 1890 $87,000,000, placing the balance less the expenses to reserve.

There is in force $3,500,000,000 of insurance under more than 1,250,000 policies, the insurance in force being about $1,000,000,000 more than enough to pay the whole national debt at the time it was the greatest.

The speaker showed that the 30 companies had paid and hold $152,000,000 more than all the premiums they had received from policy holders, and said this result was produced by the magical power of compound interest. In illustration of this power he said that next year would complete the even 400 years since Columbus discovered America, and had he placed one penny at 7 per cent. compound interest, then it would have amounted by this time to the sum of $5,497,558,138.

Life insurance, he said, was based on the great laws of average, and in the conduct of the business if these laws were faithfully followed failure is impossible.

THE COUNCILMEN

Finally Pass the General Railway Ordinance.

It Provides for Safety Gates and Conductors on All Cars—Oliver Street Again—Other Business.

All members were present at the meeting of the board of councilmen last evening but Messrs. Bay and Schmuhl.

Mr. Walker introduced resolutions for plank sidewalk on both sides of Washington street from Lawrence avenue to Hoag street, and directing the street commissioner to build crosswalks at the corner of Hoag and Nebraska avenue. Referred to the sidewalk committee.

Mr. Hassenzahl presented a petition for electric light on Superior street, between Buffalo and Galena. Referred to the gas committee.

The report of the ways and means committee on the sale of $92,000 of general fund refunding bonds was approved.

The new general street railway ordinance was taken up, and after being read the second time the amendments approved by the committee were inserted.

These amendments provided that more than one set of wires may be maintained in a street; that safety gates and conductors shall be placed on all cars. The safety gate provision is suspended from operation until January first.

The safety gate and conductor amendments met with some opposition from Messrs. Caldwell, Pheatt and Neuendorf, but were carried and the ordinance passed.

The ordinance granting to the Robison company the right to put double track on Lawrence avenue was laid over for two weeks, on motion of Mr. Coleman.

The Oliver street sidewalk came up for another twirl, which resulted in landing just where the matter was commenced. The report of the committee was adopted, but afterwards reconsidered and the matter left as it was at the beginning.

Several claims for abatements from the judiciary committee were allowed.

Ordinances were passed to improve Oak and Bay streets in Ironville and to establish the grades of Newberry street, Segur avenue and Park street.

Resolutions were adopted to improve Park street, Fourteenth and Dove lane, and directing the Lake Shore railroad to widen Fassett street at the bridge over their tracks.

Ordinances were passed for new sewers in the alley between Bartlett and Washington streets; in the alley south of Walbridge avenue; in Batavia street and alley; in alley between Martha and Newberry streets and in the alley between Langdon and Chapin streets.

Several resolutions for new sidewalks were adopted, as was the business from the board of aldermen.

CHURCH WORK.

The Columbus Meeting of the Methodists Has Closed.

Columbus, O., Nov. 10.—The general committee of church extension of the M. E. church has closed its business. Resolutions were adopted looking to more systematic reports of the work in the different fields; that amounts asked and authorized to be discussed in open meeting instead of being referred to a subcommittee; that all applications for donations to churches costing over $10,000 shall be made, in the first instance, to the board of church extension, who shall, after gathering all the facts in each case, forward these applications, with the ascertained facts to the general committee. The general board may then advise the board to appropriate such amounts to the applying churches as the committee may determine.

J. W. Bonton, of Philadelphia, offered to contribute $1,000 towards a $10,000 fund to be used to purchase locations for churches in advance of civilization. The meeting next year will be at time and place to be fixed by the secretary.

TWELVE CLUB LEAGUE.

The American Association is in Danger.

The Spalding Crowd Trying to Lead Their Rivals Into a Trap and Then Strangle Them.

New York, Nov. 10.—(Special)—A proposition will be considered at the meeting of the National league, to be held in New York on Wednesday next, to revolutionize the present state of affairs in the base ball world. The scheme is to form one organization, consisting of 12 clubs, including the present League cities and three cities holding American Association franchises.

The circuit would consist of Boston, Brooklyn, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, St. Louis, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and Indianapolis.

To bring about this arrangement it would be necessary to get rid of the Boston Reds, the Athletics, Louisville, Columbus and Milwaukee clubs.

As a basis for the consummation of this scheme it is given out that the Boston Association club is for sale, the Baltimores hankering to get into the League, that the Louisville and Columbus clubs would retire if their losses were made up and that the Milwaukee club will abandon the association next year and re-enter the Western league.

It is proposed to offer the Athletic management what the League magnates consider a fair offer, which, if not accepted, the club would be frozen out. The scheme is a pretty one on paper, but is considered impracticable by well-posted sporting men.

You hardly realize that it is medicine, when taking Carter's Little Liver Pills; they are very small; no bad effects; all troubles from torpid liver are relieved by their use.

G. H. BOYER DEAD.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—George H. Boyer, the well-known "if-not-why-not" advertising man, was found dead in his office, 155 Washington street, yesterday morning. Death was caused by asphyxiation from escaping gas. All the circumstances of the case so far brought out point to suicide.

The remarkable growth which, till within a few years, was brought about principally by one person telling another, is a monument to Garfield Tea's merits.

WON EASILY.

Columbus, O., Nov. 10.—(Special)—Ed Gorman knocked out Tommy Comer last night in three rounds.

LAUGHTER.

It Promotes Circulation and Assists Digestion.

In his "Problems of Health" Dr. Greene says that there is not one remotest corner or little inlet of the minute blood vessels of the human body that does not feel some wavelet from the convulsions occasioned by good, hearty laughter. The life principle of the central man is shaken to the innermost depths, sending new tides of life and strength to the surface, thus materially tending to insure good health to the persons who indulge therein. Therefore, in heaven's name, laugh!—London Standard.

ECHOES OF THE SUMMER SIEGE.

"Well," said the old gentleman as he sat down at breakfast, "I'm glad this summer resort business is over at last. Now maybe we'll be rid of that young fellow Lightjingle, who hung around Clara so much."

"Papa," said Clora, "I must ask you to mention Mr. Lightjingle in terms of respect."

"Why?"

"We are engaged."

"Oh! Anyhow he's better than that ninny Snaggles or that little monkey of a Bliggins."

"Papa," Clara exclaimed with emphasis, "I trust that you will never again use such language in speaking of either Mr. Snaggles or Mr. Bliggins."

"Why not?"

"Because I'm engaged to them also."

Gladwin county, Michigan, boasts of having the largest frame barn in the world. It is 156 feet long, 50 feet wide, and in its construction 500,000 feet of lumber were used.

CROUPY SOUNDS

At night, from baby's crib, are distracting to parents who are at a loss for a medicine equal to the emergency. Not so with those who have Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house. A dose of this medicine affords certain and speedy relief. To cure colds, coughs, sore throat, asthma, bronchitis, hoarseness, and the various disorders of the breathing apparatus, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has no equal. It soothes the inflamed tissue, expectorates, and imposes. Cap. Call For promotes ration, induces repose. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children were subject."

"I use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my practice, and pronounce it to be unequaled as a remedy for colds and coughs."—J. G. Gordon, M. D., Carroll Co., Virginia.

A Remarkable Rescue.

PETERSBURG, IND., Nov. 27, 1889.

Dr. J. W. Bergen, City:

Dear Sir:—My son Charles, who has been sorely afflicted with asthma for ten years, never succeeded in getting any relief from anything until he used your asthma cure. He began to take your medicine about one year ago. He is well and hearty, and does not have an asthmatic symptom. I feel more grateful than words can express.

Yours truly,

Next to Opera House, Cleveland, O.

A PERMANENT INSTITUTION of many years standing. Established for the special treatment of NERVOUS, CHRONIC, SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES.

NERVOUS DEBILITY,
Decay of Body and Mind, Self Distrust,
POOR MEMORY, WEAK EYES,
STUNTED DEVELOPMENT, LACK OF ENERGY,
Impoverished Blood, Low Vitality,
And all effects of
ABUSES, EXCESSES, IMPROPER LIFE, ETC.,
which renders MARRIAGE UNHAPPY and LIFE MISERABLE
Are
PRIVATELY, SAFELY AND PERMANENTLY CURED.

Nervous Debility.

Those suffering from Nervous Debility, the symptoms of which are a dull distressed mind, which unfits them for performing business and social duties; make happy marriages impossible, distress the action of the heart, causing flushes of heat, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, cowardice, fear, dreams, short breathings, melancholy, tire easily of company and have a preference to be alone; feeling as tired in the morning as when retiring; lost manhood, white bone deposits in the urine, nervousness, trembling, confusion of thoughts, watery and weak eyes, dyspepsia, constipation, paleness, pain and weakness in the limbs, etc., should consult us immediately and be restored to health. By a wise course of treatment, adapted to your age, sex and physical condition, the cone of your system can be raised, the tendency to impure thoughts removed, and the strength and vigor of health restored to the debilitated organs.

Marriage.

Married persons or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualifications, speedily relieved. He who places himself under our care may confide in our honor as gentlemen, and confidently rely on our skill as Physicians. We have had many years experience in hospitals and private practice and are graduates of the most eminent Medical Colleges of the U. S.

Organal Weakness

Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This distressing affliction which renders life a burden and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by victims of improper indulgence. The most chaste must acknowledge that the passions are the great magnet by which the whole world is attracted. Destroy them and what have we? Man is no longer interested in the opposite sex; the interchange of that blissful repose which attracts and interests the whole world, exists no longer; man ceases to be what God made him; the world is no longer interesting to him, and remorse and disappointment are his constant companions. We have devoted years to the study of the best methods of treating the various forms in which this disease manifests itself. We treat every case on its own merits; and thousands to-day join in thanking us for the new lease of life and happiness our skill has opened up to them.

Young Men who have become victims of SOLITARY VICE—that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave, thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with full confidence.

We address all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for business, study, society or marriage.

A PERFECT RESTORATION GUARANTEED.

A CURE WARRANTED.

PERSONS RUINED IN HEALTH by UNLEARNED PRETENDERS, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving POISONOUS AND INJURIOUS COMPOUNDS, should apply immediately.

REMARKABLE CURES

Perfected in OLD CASES which have been NEGLECTED or UNSKILLFULLY TREATED. No Experiments or Failures. Parties treated by mail and express, but where possible, one personal interview is preferred.

Curable Cases Guaranteed. Address with postage

London wheat market very firm, and 6d per quarter higher; corn firm, less active. Weather fine. Liverpool wheat firm and 1-2d per 100 pounds higher; corn firm and 1-2d higher.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,657,430 bu., compared with 695,019 bu. on the same day last year.

The imports into the United Kingdom for the week were 3,896,000 bu. of wheat and 197,000 bbls. of flour, equal to 4,782,000 bu. of wheat, and 840,000 bu. of corn.

The quantity of flour and wheat on ocean passage increased last week 984,000 bu, being a decrease to the Continent of 184,000 bu, and an increase to the United Kingdom of 1,168,000 bu. Corn decreased 152,000 bu. The aggregate to the latter is now 18,720,000 bu against 16,104,000 bu in 1890, and the aggregate to the former is now 15,584,000 bu, against 5,328,000 bu in 1890.

Our table herein of available wheat and corn shows a decrease of 3,724,193 bu wheat, and a decrease of 392,544 bu corn.

Shipments of wheat from India last week equalled 1,440,000 bu. Previous week 1,118,000 bu. From April 1, the commencement of the crop year, to November 7, 39,778,000 bu, compared with 21,320,000 bu in the corresponding period in 1890.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 962,411 bu in excess of the corresponding Tuesday in 1890. The export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were 322,506 bu, and flour to an aggregate of 375,000 bu. The export of corn was 77,953 bu. English markets as reported herein are strong and higher for wheat and corn.

Rain and the Wheat Crop.

Our Indian summer day noted yesterday resolved itself into a downpour before night, and it has rained ever since. The rain has been quite general all over the wheat belt, and if soft weather succeeds it it will be an immense aid to the growing wheat, which over immense vicinities was nearly famished for want of it.

But now that the rain has come we must soon expect the advent of the newspaper gusher, who will begin now to enlarge the prospects of the coming crop, to the delight and profit of all importing countries. But the wheat crop is not out of danger by any means. There is not a western state where the crop can attain to the needed strength and vitality necessary to encounter a hard winter unless the intervening period gives us growing weather, and in a number of states the acreage will be much reduced because of the unfavorable conditions for plowing and seeding. The new crop cannot afford adversities, and must hump itself constantly to make an average yield.

United Kingdom imports last week exceed those of any week in a long period, aggregating in flour and wheat 4,782,000 bu. This is 782,000 bu. in excess of estimated consumption, without considering the sales of home-grown wheat.

Markets To-Day.

Notwithstanding the higher English cables, and daily sharp demand for export, the bears in wheat jumped on the market this morning with both feet, and it cannot be denied that they made things hum. This bear element gives great strength to the market when prices are strong and advancing, but at times it works great destruction to values. There is no reason why prices should break to-day. Wheat is fully worth what it sold for yesterday.

Of course the break on this side will be reflected on the other side to-morrow, if not to-day, and it seems as though we ought to worry along without helping foreign dealers put our prices down.

At one time December wheat in New York was 1 7-8c lower, and 1 5-8c in Chicago.

Corn has been weak and declined, notwithstanding the weather is wet in the corn fields.

Berlin and Paris closed a shade lower on wheat.

In New York, November wheat closed at 2c, and December at 1 5-8c loss. November corn 1-4c lower; December steady. November oats steady.

In Chicago December wheat closed 1 5-8c lower. November corn 7-8c, and November oats 1-2c lower.

In Toledo—The market for wheat futures has been fairly active, but weak and declining. Prices, however, have at no time broken as seriously as in other markets, the decline on December and May being 1c at the close, compared with yesterday. Closing were as low as any prices of the day. On the call December sold at 1 00 5-8 to 1 00 3-4; May at 1 07 5-8 to 1 07 3-8. After the call December sold at 1 00 3-8 and closed at 99 3-4; May sold at 1 07 3-8 and closed at 1 06 1-2.

Cash Wheat.—There was a fair demand, an easier market, closing 1 1-4c lower. No. 2 soft sold at 99@98 1-2c, and closed at that. No. 3 soft sold early at 96c, but was offered at the close at 95c. No. 4 soft at 90c. Rejected No. 1 at 91c. No. 2 at 80@81c. Smutty at 88 L. S. No. 1 white at 95 1-2c. No. 2 at 94 1-2c. On the call January sold at 41 1-4c.

Corn—No. 2 at 58c to 58 1-2c; No. 3 at 57c; No. 3 new at 45c; No. 4 at 43 1-2 to 44c. Oats—No. 2, 35c; No. 2 white at 34 1-2c; No. 3 at 33 1-2c; No. 2 for May at 35c. Rye was 1c better with very little doing; No. 2 at 96c; No. 3 at 92c. Clover seed was active; very firm, and 5c to 10c dearer. Confidence in this commodity seems to increase, and there seems also a good basis for it. On the call January sold at $4 72 1-2. After the call January at $4 75; February at $4 75 to $4 80, closing $4 82 1-2; December at $4 75; prime for cash at $4 70; No. 2 at $4 50.

SHOT AT A BURGLAR.

Detective Duffy Prevents a Burglary, but the Fellow Escaped.

Detective Duffy last night followed a suspicious character, and about 1:30 this morning caught him trying to enter a window of Joseph Steinem's residence, 34 Tenth street. Duffy made an effort to capture the fellow, and fired several shots at him, but the burglar escaped. The shots of the officer aroused the neighborhood, and there was considerable of a sensation in that vicinity for a while.

This adds one more to the many burglaries and attempts at the same that have occurred lately, and people should be careful to lock up at night.

JUDGE GRESHAM WON'T TALK

On the Senatorial Fight In the Buckeye State.

Judge Gresham, who is attending the United States district court here, was asked by a Bee this morning for his view on the senatorial contest in Ohio.

"I know nothing about your fight here in Ohio," he said, "and if I did I certainly wouldn't say anything."

The judge is somewhat of a presidential quantity and may be a rather rapid dark horse in 1892.

NEW YORK CENTRAL'S NEW TRAIN.

On Monday, October 26, the New York Central & Hudson River railroad will place in service its new train, the "Empire State Express," which will be the fastest regular passenger train in the world.

It will leave Grand Central station at 9 a. m. every day except Sunday, and arrive at Buffalo at 5:40 p. m., stopping at Albany, Utica, Syracuse and Rochester. The running time will be 52 1-3 miles per hour.

The famous "Flying Scotchman" of the London & Northwestern and Caledonia railways makes 51.6 miles per hour between London and Edinburg; the running time of the Royal Blue train of the Central railroad of New Jersey, Philadelphia & Reading and the B. & O. between New York and Washington is 51.9 miles per hour, but the New York Central with its "Empire State Express" will eclipse all previous efforts at fast time for a long distance run for regular trains.

UNION MANUFACTURING CO.

Suit for Unpaid Debts Which Amount to $200,000,

On Hearing Before Referee Chas. Pratt and a Great Array of Local Legal Talent.

An interesting case growing out of the sale of the Union Manufacturing company is on hearing to-day before Attorney Charles Pratt, referee, in the office of E. W. Tolerton in the Produce Exchange.

The suit is brought by the Ferrall Foundry and Machine company, of Connecticut to recover unpaid debts of the Union Manufacturing company, amounting to $200,000.

The morning session was occupied in a presentation of certain contracts. The suit is against the various creditors, and there will be a whole host of witnesses. Mr. William Peters, who is one of the chief witnesses, is out of the city to-day, but will go on the stand to-morrow.

The various parties interested are represented by the following strong delegation of local legal lights: E. W. Tolerton, Guy Kinney, Geo. W. Beckwith, A. L. Smith, Harry Baker, Edward Bissell, Col. H. S. Bunker, T. J. McDonnell and Thomas & Hiett.

The case is an interesting one, and will occupy several days. Mr. Pratt will make his report to the common pleas court.

GIVE THANKS.

Governor Campbell Fixes the Annual Day of Feasting.

Columbus, O., Nov. 10.—Gov. Campbell has issued the following proclamation to the people of the state:

"The people of Ohio have much to be thankful for. The past year has brought them many blessings; and they have not been visited by plague, pestilence or famine. They see around them evidences of industry and thrift. Particularly have they been favored with an abundant yield from orchard and field. The earth has truly given to them of its treasures; and threatened depression has been averted by the bounty of nature. The learned professions, the tradesman, the mechanic and the laborer have reason to rejoice with the farmer, that Divine Providence has given him plenty, thus enabling him to bestow of his supply upon less fortunate countries.

Therefore, I, James E. Campbell, Governor, do call upon the people of Ohio to observe Thursday, Nov. 26, as a day of general thanksgiving, and to abstain upon that day from all labor whatsoever except such as is usually performed on Sunday. It is advised that they repair to their respective places of worship and return thanks to an all-wise and all-merciful Creator for the favors showered upon the people of the commonwealth, and at the same time prayers be offered for the oppressed, the poor, and the unfortunate of all nations.

"In testimony whereof I have hereunto subscribed my name and caused to be affixed the great seal of the state of Ohio, at Columbus, this ninth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, and in the one hundred and sixteenth year of the independence of the United States of America. By the governor.

"JAMES E. CAMPBELL,
"Daniel J. Ryan, Secretary of State."

Outside passengers by one of the London road car services were recently astonished to find fixed to their seats a funnel containing an umbrella which might be used without extra charge on wet days. The only condition attached to its employment was the modest request that it should be replaced.

THE WOODBRIDGE UNION

Met in Regular Bi-Weekly Session Yesterday.

Woodbridge W. C. T. U. met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. J. J. Freeman, 2022 Collingwood avenue, and in spite of the rainy afternoon the union was well represented. The secretary's report was read and approved.

A motion was carried that Mrs. Romain, of Kansas, who is attending the national state W. C. T. U. convention, be asked to deliver a lecture in Toledo on her return to Kansas. The following ladies were appointed a committee by the president, Mrs. W. R. Jones, to select a place and time for the lecture: Mrs. Churchill, of St. John's M. E. church; Mrs. Freeman, of the First Baptist and Mrs. Van Arnum, of Westminster. It was then decided to present Mrs. Sumner, the president of the Union of Unions, and county president, who is to attend the national convention, with a contribution toward her expenses, as a slight token of the esteem the union held for Mrs. Sumner.

Mrs. Fray and Mrs. Murphy were present and talked on Woman suffrage.

The meeting adjourned until two weeks from yesterday, when it will be held with Mrs. Van Arnum, of 513 Locust street.

AMONG THE PEOPLE.

Jottings of Personal Mention About the City,

Gleaned by Members of the Bee Staff—Socials and Small Parties at Different Homes.

Mr. Dan Segur is home from a hunting trip in Illinois.

Toledo club's reception occurs to-morrow evening.

Miss Olive Barraclough is visiting friends in Norwalk.

J. H. Botefuhr went to Port Clinton yesterday on business.

Miss Brigham, of Milwaukee, is Miss Maria Gosline's guest.

Mrs. A. E. Macomber has returned from a delightful eastern trip.

Mrs. L. D. Cook will entertain the Columbian circle this week.

Mrs. John Cummings has been indisposed for the past few days.

Mrs. S. M. Worth, of Upper Sandusky, is in the city for a visit with relatives.

Miss Alma Palmer, of Toledo, is the guest of Miss Alice Leason at Jackson, Mich.

Miss Milo and a friend have taken a cottage at 936 Broadway, and have gone to housekeeping.

Mr. W. L. Judge will be Mrs. Sam T. Fisk's guest, and she will give a dinner for him next Monday.

Messrs. Stark and Poggemyer went to Monroe yesterday to fish and came back with 10 pike and 6 bass.

Mr. Ign. Fischer went to Ten-Mile creek to fish yesterday and caught seven big pike and a bad cold.

There will be business meetings Friday at 8 p. m. and Saturday at 10 a. m. with Mesdames Segur and Fray.

The first issue of the new suffrage paper Woman's Record, edited by Mrs. Murphy, will come out Thursday morning.

S. F. Boyd, first assistant general ticket and passenger agent, of Chicago, visited Toledo friends yesterday.

Rev. Mr. Cravens' ecture on Hamlet promises to be largely attended by the Shakespearian students of Toledo.

The Moulton-Manley wedding occurs to-morrow evening, instead of this evening, as was announced in last night's paper.

Mrs. F. D. Jermain will give the essay before the New Century club Friday evening, which meets with Mrs. J. B. Tillinghast.

Mrs. Sumner, president of the W. C. T. Union of Unions, leaves to-morrow to attend the national convention, and will join the Chicago delegates.

Mesdames A. E. Lang, Edward Bissell, Chas. Peck and Eck will assist in entertaining the visiting members of the Ohio Woman's Suffrage association.

Mrs. Will Baker's card party given last week was considered one of the prettiest parties of its kind ever given in Toledo. The favors were delicate scent sachets.

The various literary clubs throughout the city have accepted an invitation to attend a lecture on theosophy by Mr. W. L. Judge at Memorial hall Monday evening, Nov. 16.

Mr. A. M. Leach, formerly an old Toledo typo, but now engaged in business in Cleveland, spent the past few days in the city, returning home last evening.

Mrs. May Simmons, of Detroit, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Lydia Burbank, at Hotel Ontario. Mrs. Stout, the aged mother of the ladies, will return with Mrs. Simmons to her home Friday.

The proposed reception to the visiting members of the executive committee of the Ohio Woman's Suffrage association had to be abandoned, as its business session will occupy all of the time, the members wishing to leave for their homes on Saturday.

Mr. Joseph Fattoosh and wife, of Syria, are in the city and will be at the Adams Street Mission to-night. Mr. Fattoosh is endeavoring by sale of Oriental novelties to secure the necessary means to give him an education that he may labor as a missionary among his people.

Mrs. John Sherwood delighted the cultured audience who assembled at Whitney & Currier's music hall last evening to listen to her reading on "Five Seasons in London." Her voice is clear and musical, and that, with her agreeable presence, lent a charm which her listeners were immediately aware of. The hall had been prettily decorated with palms and chrysanthemums for the occasion, in Mrs. Suder's usual artistic manner. Another reading will be given on Thursday evening.

Miss Anne Franklin's farewell dinner party for Miss Moulton last evening was perfect in detail and effect. The table was a marvel of beauty, with its fine ware and pink decorations, the center piece being a large chrysanthemum heart with a dart through it, which, after the guests were seated at the table, pointed directly to the bride-elect, Miss Moulton. The party consisted of Mr. Manley and Miss Moulton, the Misses Lorenz, Baker, Berdan, Mrs. Spitzer and Messrs. Roff, Baker, Wheeler, of Buffalo, Spitzer and Le Baron. The hostess, Miss Franklin, was becomingly attired in white silk grenadine, and Miss Moulton was lovely in white lace over pale blue silk.

A MINISTER IN TROUBLE.

He Wanted to Elope With Another Man's Wife

An Angry Stock Dealer Chases Him Through the Streets and Pounds His Head With a Stone.

Springfield, O., Nov. 10.—A sensation of immense proportions is agitating the people of South Solon, Stokes township, 15 miles from this city. The village contains about 600 people, and the surrounding country is one of the most fertile and the people the most refined of any in the state.

For some time past gossip has been busy with the names of Rev. Mr. Mowbray, pastor of the Baptist church there, and Mrs. Amanda Brock, wife of one of the most prominent and wealthy stock dealers in this section of the country, but nothing criminating was ascertained until last evening.

Yesterday afternoon some one told Mr. Brock of the suspicions, and Brock succeeded in intercepting a letter written by Rev. Mr. Mowbray to Brock's wife, appointing a meeting and making arrangements to elope. Brock hunted the town over for the minister, and finally found him and gave chase and caught him, and before they could be separated hit the reverend gentleman on the head with a stone, inflicting serious injury.

Rev. Mr. Mowbray has a wife and five children and he has heretofore borne an excellent reputation, and the lady prior to this was among the most respected in the town. Rev. Mr. Mowbray will be tried by the church.

HE'S AS GAY AS A LARK.

Senator Sherman Talks on the Situation,

And Says He Will Certainly Succeed Himself.

Foraker a Man, According to Senator Sherman, Who is Easily Deceived and Who is Playing a Bluff Game.

Mansfield, O., Nov. 10.—(Special)—W. C. McBride has been here and interviewed Senator Sherman as follows:

"Do you feel assured of your re-election to the senate?"

"I do," he answered. "I have now upon my table letters which, of course, I must regard in a sense confidential. Still, the expressions contained in them are of a character amply sufficient to convince me of my success."

"How, then," said I, "do you account for the claims made by Foraker and his friends?"

"I cannot well conceive," he said, "upon what basis they make their calculations. Mr. Foraker is a brilliant man, but he is easily deceived. The evidence that he is readily deceived was shown in his readiness to accept the ballot-box forgeries as genuine.

I have canvassed his claims, or rather those promulgated by his friends, and if his hopes rest upon such data I know he is deceived. The Cuyahoga delegation, which he claims in solid phalanx, is all pledged to my election. In Lucas county his cains will fail to materialize, and even in Hamilton county.

"I know he will not have all the votes. The delegation will be divided, and right here I want to say that so far as I am concerned I am fully willing that the members-elect of the legislature should now publicly declare their preference, for in such event the disclosure will show that which I now privately know."

"That is to say, senator, your re-election."

"Yes. I think just that. As I said before, it will show that Mr. Foraker is either deceived by his friends, or both he and they are playing a game fo brag by betting on the sorrel horse, when they mean to bet on the bay."

RAILROADS HEREABOUTS.

Lake Shore Will Change Numbers of Its Trains.

A Big Game Dinner—Weekly Earnings—Hocking Valley Resignation—Other News.

On next Sunday the Lake Shore will change time and the numbers of all its passenger trains as well. In conversation with a Bee on the subject Charley Gates of the Union Ticket office said: "I don't see what is to be gained or what end is to be accomplished by this change. It will only serve to mix up the employes and public as well. For instance, a conductor receives orders to meet such and such a number at such and such a point, and he is liable to get the old and new numbers mixed up. The dispatchers will also get all muddled up, and there is no telling what the result will be. Of course, after they become accustomed to the change there will be no trouble."

The Game Is Played.

The Alton boycott has gone completely to pieces. It has been apparent for some time that the little game of freeze-out would not last much longer, from the fact that the Alton has been doing more business than ever before. It is the shoe on the other foot that pinches. The Alton's independence was manifest in General Passenger Agent Charlton's statement in Toledo some time ago, to the effect that the management of the Alton would not join any association and didn't care whether they ever received a dollar's worth of business from other lines. They are hustling on their own resources and the boycotters begin to feel the pressure. Now comes the report that no less than three eastern roads are paying commission to western agents on tickets to New York and Boston. The board of rulings has lively times ahead.

A Grand Game Dinner.

General Passenger Agent Hall received an elegantly engraved invitation to a game dinner to be given by the management of the Grand Pacific hotel, of Chicago, on Saturday, November 21. This spread is made every year, complimentary to guests and friends.

Quarantine Raised.

The following circular has been issued by Wilbur McCoy, general ticket agent of the Platt steamship line, from Sanford, Florida:

Commencing Sunday, November 15, 1891, and continuing until further notice, all quarantine restrictions, as regards passengers and baggage between the United States, West Indies and South America are withdrawn.

Clover Leaf Earnings.

The following shows the earnings of the T., St. L. & K. C. road for the first week of November:

1891	$44,785
1890	$31,563
Increase	13,222

Another Resignation.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois road is making a wholesale raid on C., H. V. and T. officials. So soon after the resignation of General Superintendent Rockwell comes the announcement that W. H. Miller, master mechanic, has tendered his resignation effective November 8 to accept a similar position with the Chicago and eastern Illinois.

Failed to Get a Quorum.

As was announced in the Bee yesterday a meeting of the directors of the Toledo board of trade was called to be held at Thomas and Hiett's law office at 4 o'clock p. m. A number of the directors were present, but not enough to constitute a quorum, and the meeting was adjourned until to-morrow afternoon at the same time and place.

T. and O. C. Earnings.

The following statement shows the earnings of the T. and O. C. lines for the first week in November:

T., C. and C.
1891	$6,898 00
1890	5,839 44
Increase	$1,058 56
T. and O. C.
1890*	$32,187 00
1891	30,603 50
Decrease	$ 1,583 50

Cinders Here and There.

Superintendent A. E. Robins of the C., H. V. & T. is in the city to-day.

President Waite and directors of the C., H. V. & T. are inspecting the line.

C. N. Pratt, division superintendent of the Clover Leaf, with headquarters at Frankford, Ind., is in the city to-day.

Hanging in several ticket offices over the city is a handsome water-colored scene of the Niagara Falls as viewed from the Michigan Central.

General Passenger Agent Fisher of the Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo road has named the new sleepers. They are "Tymochtee," "Wyandot" and "Olentangy."

Even worthless and troublesome animals may prove themselves to be of some worth. The weasels are said to be killing off the rabbits in Tulare county. The creature comes up behind bunny as he sits at peace with all the world, and, springing upon his back, clings and sucks his life blood as he runs, until he drops dead from exhaustion.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

Burglars attempt to get entrance to Dr. Kirkley's barn last night, but did not succeed.

A. M. Goldberg was fined the costs in police court this morning for peddling without a license.

Marriage licenses were issued to-day to Wilson M. Gales and Effie M. Long; Joe L. Nellis and Mary Scholl.

Papers of administration of the estate of Robert Schrag were issued to Maria Barbara in probate court to-day.

The case of Reuben against the Toledo Electric Street Railway company is on hearing in Judge Lemmon's court.

The case of Bowen against the Pennsylvania Railway company has been submitted to the jury in common pleas court.

Attend the sale of oriental fancy work, mantel pieces, table covers, tidies, etc., at Adams street mission rooms, every afternoon this week.

The funeral of the late Martin Murray took place from the Immaculate Conception church this morning. The deceased was an old and respected citizen of Toledo.

An old man named Charles H. Smith was struck by a belt line car on Canton avenue about 7:30 last evening and quite badly injured. His home is at 1048 Canton avenue, where he was taken and cared for.

Col. E. C. Brush of Zanesville, who was recently elected colonel of the artillery regiment to which Toledo's battery is attached, is mentioned among the candidates for adjutant general under Gov. McKinley.

The Northwestern Elevator and Mill company has just completed a large shipment of Taylor's flour for export to Bristol, England.

George Wendel, of 138 Hamilton street, an insane man, was taken in charge by the police last evening, and this morning was taken before the probate court.

A lady's gold watch of cheap make and Elgin movement was found on the corner of Madison and Superior streets last evening by a colored man named
